Engineers sign housing project

그는 정말한 것이 같이 있는 것 같아요. 그 아파 아파 이 것이 있는 것이 같이 했다.

AMMAN, Dec. 26 (J.T.) --- Agricultural engineers in Jordan will have their first housing project in twenty months, in accordance with an agreement signed at the Professional Associations Complex here this evening. According to agricultural engineer Khaled Al 'At'out who signed the contract with a local firm, the JD 889,000 project will be the first for agricultural engineers to be followed by others io the future. He said a total of 42 housing units, of 170 square metres each, will be built in the first project complete, with public services and utilities. The project, the said, will he constructed in the Jubeiha region not far away from the Royal Scientific Society.

Volume 6, Number 1845

AMMAN, SUNDAY DECEMBER 27, 1981 - SAFAR 30, 1402

An independent Arab political daily publ

طيرية عن المؤسسة الصحفية الإربنية "الراي"

Price: Jordan 100 fils; Syria 1 pound; Lebanon 1 pound; Saudi Arabia 1.50 riyals; UAE 1.50 dirhams; Great Britain 25 pence

Idau Press Foundation

جوردان تايمز

Former Turkish premier dies

ISTANBUL, Dec. 26 (R) -Former Turkisb prime minister Suat Hayri Urguplu died today, Turkish state television reported. He was 78. Mr. Urguplu served as prime minister for seven months in 1965, heading a coalition government. He also served as minister of monopolies and held several key diplomatic posts in the 1950s, including appointments as ambassador to Washingtoo and London.

Iraq reports fierce battles in Gulf war

BEIRUT, Dec. 26 (R) --- Iraq said today its forces killed over 100 Iranians in a fierce battle in the central sector of the Gulf war front. A military communique, reported by the official Iraqi News Agency (INA), said the fighting was in Iran's Gilan-e-Garb and Sumar regions, in the western part of the country. Fighting in other sec-tors over the last 24 hours resulted in 12 Iranians killed, it added. It put total Iraqi losses at 13.

3 Koreans killed in Seoul explosion

SEOUL, Dec. 26 (R) - The ceiling collapsed on guests eating in a basement restaurant in Seoul after an explosion today, killing three people and inj-uring about 90, police said. They said they believed the explosion was caused by gas being used for cooking.

Libyan girl dies

ROME, Dec. 26 (R) - A Libyan girl erroneously identified as a niece of Col. Muammar Qadhafi died today from sev-

PLO leader says Israel is planning to attack Jordan

KUWAIT, Dec. 26 (A.P.) - A Palestine Liberation Organisation official was quoted here today as saying that Israel was planning military action against Jordan.

In an interview with the Kuwaiti newspaper Al Siyassa the head of the PLO office in Saudi Arabia, Mr. Rafiq Al Natshah, said that Israel was trying to push through its proposal for setting up a Palestinian entity on Jordanian territory as an alternative to a Palestinian homeland on the West Bank and Gaza.

"By occupying Jordan Israel would thus be foiling the Palestinian objective of establishing a Palestinian state on Palestinian soil, by providing an alternative military solution," Mr. Al Natshah said.

He stressed that the PLO "will come to Syria's aid if it waged war against Israel" over the Golan Heights, which Israel has annexed. Mr. Al Natsbah also said that the Tehran leadership bas issued barsh remarks about the PLO, on account of contacts between the PLO and some friends such as (former Iranian president) Abol Hassan Bani-Sadr and (Mujahedeen Khalq leader) Masoud Rajavi." "They (in Tehran) interpreted these contacts the wrong way," said, Mr. Al Natshab. He did not elaborate.

Assad ends Gulf tour

he discussed with Arab leaders ways of countering Israel's ann-exation of the Golan Heights. In the course of the tour Assad held talks with the Saudi leaders, who announced their denunciation of asked the Arab leaders to talk the the Israeli move.

ABU DHABI, Dec. 26 (A.P.) -United States into pressuring Isr-Syrian President Hafez Al Assad ael to go back on the annexation of the Golan. flew home today at the end of a five-nation Gulf tour during which

The Saudi crown prince was ouoted last Wednesday as saying that the Arabs will pursue pacific means to regain the Golan and all other Arab territory occupied by Israel. If that failed, he said, the Arabs might have to take back their territory "the same way it was taken" by Israel.

Mr. Assad also received support The Syrian foreign minister. Abdul Halim Khaddam also annfrom the rulers of Kuwait. Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmad, of Bahrain's Sheikh Issa Ibn Salman, of Qatar's ounced yesterday that Syria will Sheikh Khalifa Ibn Hamad, and support the Gulf states in their quest for internal stability. President Sheikh Zaved Iba Sul-He was alluding to the contan of the United Arab Emirates. spiracy to topple the regime of Sources said the Syrian leaders Sheikh Issa of Bahrain by a group of pro-Iranian operatives.

Israel's annexation of Golan denounced at Amman meeting

AMMAN, Dec. 26 (Petra) — A meeting was held at the Professional Association Complex this evening to discuss the consequences of Israel's recent decision to annex the occupied Golan Heights.

Speakers at the general meeting pointed out that this move was a continuation of Israel's acts of aggression on the Arah Nation. The decision to annex the Golan Heights, they said, emphasises anew the nature of the Zionist entity and its dangers directed against Arab countries. These dangers, they stressed, are not aimed at the Arab confrontation states alone but also at the whole Arab Nation.

Repelling Zionist aggression, the speakers maintained, cannot he achieved unless the Arabs are united. Arab states should bypass their differences and rise to the level of national responsibilities which call on them all to stand firm together in the face of the Israeli aggression, the speakers said.

They called on Arab countries to extend help and assistance to the confrootation states which bear the brunt in facing the Zionist enemy.

The speakers also hailed the steadfastness of the Arab inhabitants in the occupied Arab territories, and called on all Arab countries to extend further support for them in order to pursue their steadfastness.

Palestinian council to hold meeting Monday

By Samira Kawar Special to the Jordan Times

AMMAN, Dec. 26 - The Palestinian Central Council, which is a diminutive body of the Palestinian National Council (PNC), will meet in Damascus on Monday, Dec. 28. This will be the couacit's first meeting since the last session which took place in Damascus last summer.

told the Jordan Times that the 70-member Palestine Central Council will review and evaluate the activities of the PLO Executive Committee over the past several months and will then submit its recommendations to the Executive Committee,

Mr. Arens said il was "bighly would bring the reversal of the

Asked about Mr. Begin's bitter

U.S. Ambassador Samuel Lewis.

Mr. Arens said that someone other than, Mr. Begin "probably would be talking to him in some different way," but noted that the prime minister has his own style.

"But basically," added Mr.

Arens, "I think that the prime minister tried to get across a message which I think is in the hearts of almost all Israclis: that U.S.-

Israel relationships simply could not be based on punitive measures being applied by the United States

whenever something that is being done here ... does not please the State Department."

Arens attacks Washington

tponing it.

TEL AVIV. Dec. 26 (A.P.) -Israel's next amhassador to the United States said today that the unlikely that any sort of elbowing" Reagan administration's punishment for the annexation of the Golan hill or any other measure Golan Heights was "inc-omprehensible" and likened the passed by Israel's Knesset. move to action taken by countries

Iraqi nuclear reactor and Lebanon indicates that the majority in Israel share their aggressive attitudes towards the Arab Nation.

He added that the multitude of the problem is not reflected only in the Israeli annexation of the Golan Heights but in Israel itself which threatens the Arab existence, and works to polarise the conflict in the area. In that regard, the King warned against accepting an int-ernationalisation of the conflict because that would threaten the Arab freedom, accomplishments and identity.

AMMAN, Dec. 26 (Petra) - His Majesty King Hussein has reafirmed Jordan's commitment to the defence of Arab identity and Arab rights as well as Jordan's determination to serve the Arab cause; and has called on the Arab

Nation to face up to the challenges

In an interview with the Beirut

based magazine An Nahar Al

Arabi Wad Dawli, the King said

the recent annexation of the Golan Heights has shed more light on the growing attitudes in Israel not only towards occupied Pal-estine, but also towards the other

The King added that the current Arab conditions of division help Israel achieve its ends, and this challenge should be tackled by the urn of the same Israeli coalition to power after the attacks on the

The King also said that the ret-

Arabs on the highest levels.

confronting it at present.

Arab land.

He expressed his surprise at the support given to Iran by some Arab regimes in the war against Iraq. Such support, he said, is a violation of the Arab League charter and the Arab defence treaty, sud it comes at a time when Iran receives Israeli military aid and and the recent claims by the Israeli years, was still there. defence minister coocerning Jor-On the shuation in Lebanon,

Afghan forces report successes

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan, Dec. 26 (R) - Afghan security forces have crushed several rebel groups in the country and captured arms and unspecified documents, Radio Kabul said today. The radio, monitored by Reuters, gave no dates for the clashes which it said took place in the provinces of Nangarhar, Nimroze, Fariab and Wardak. The radio also quoted a defence ministry spokesman as saying that Pakistani allegations that six Afghan helicopter

gunships attacked a refugee camp inside Pakistan on Dec. 18, killing ooe child and destroying two houses, were haseless. A Pakistan foreign ministry statemeot last Sunday said the helicopters had attacked an Afghan refugee camp in north Waziristan, bordering Afghanistan. It was the secood such incident dan confirm this. the King said: "What is more nec-However, the King added, the ded in that Arab country is an appreal problem lies in the rights of ropriate atmosphere in which a the Palestinians on Palestinian Lebanese-Lebanese and Lebsoil. He added that Israel expanese Palestinian dialogue would anded during the partition of Pal-estine until it bas occupied all of take place on the principles of complete Lebanese sovereignty Palestine in addition to its occand independence." upation of other Arab lands and its military presence in South Lebpossibility of normalising relations reported by Pakistan in a month.

Hussein urges Arabs

to confront challenges

Regarding recent statements by "depends on our brothers in senior French officials on the Syria."

blems facing the Arab Nation and Middle East, the King expressed to meet at the highest level to discuss the issues amongst them. dissatisfaction with the current Among the issues that should be French position which he said resdiscussed, the King said, are: the embles the pre-de Gaulle possituation in Lebanon; the Imgiition. He added that it is strange Iranian war: and inter-Arab relthat France would launch such moves at a time when a European ations; as well as the adherence to the Arab League charter, the initiative on the Middle East has begun to take shape. Arab defence treaty and the Concerning his recent visit to common Arab interest. On the Saudi peace plan, the the United States, the King said

Informed Palestinian sources

ere hums, a Rome hospital spokesman said. Aisha Abudd Ali, 15, who was rushed to Rome last Sunday suffering hums over 90 per cent of her body, was said to be Col. Qadhaff's niece by a spokesman at Sant-Eugenio hospital. The Libyan diplomatic mission in Rome said yesterday that she was not. The confusion appears to have begun at Rome airport, when the girl arrived on a special flight from Tripoli. Airport officials described her to Italian journalists as the Libyan leader's niece.

Council of Europe fact-finding team to visit Turkey

ANKARA, Dec. 26 (R) - A delegation from the Council of Europe will arrive in Turkey oo a fact-finding mission on Jan. 7. a Turkish foreign ministry official said today. The delegation will draw up a report for the general assembly of the council which is to decide on the future of Turkey's membership in the organisatioo. set up in 1949 to promote greater. unity among European states. Socialist delegations within the 21-nation council have been pressing for the exputsion of Turkey which bas been under military rule for the last 16 months

Volcano erupts in Central Africa

ABIDJAN, Dec. 26 (R) - An erupting volcano in the heart of Africa seot villagers fleeing from their homes today as lava headed for the eastern Zaire coffee plantation town of Rutshuru, the Zairean oews agency AZAP reported. Details were sparse and there were no reports of casualties. The volcano, called Nyirangoogo or Tshoninagongo, is 3,500 metres high and stands in Albert National Park near Zaire's border with Rwanda. Local lore links its cruptions with the expiation of guilty acts. Its lava flows sometimes reach Lake Kivu, 20 km to the south. AZAP said that news of the eruption came early this morning from villagers fleeing their homes.

· · · . -

Italian detainees refuse to answer questions on Dozier

VERONA, Italy, Dec. 26 (R) — Three people arrested in Milan in connection with the Red Brigades kidnapping of U.S. Gen. James Dozier are refusing to answer questions and have declared themselves political prisoners, police said today.

No important information about the general has emerged from the trio, who were detained five days ago, a spokesman added.

Police sources said two of the detained, Pasqua Aurora Betti and Flavio Amico, are senior figures in the Brigades' Milanese cell. They named the third as Maria Grazia Chiari, the 24-year-old wife of a jailed Red Brigade member.

Brig. Gen. Dozier, 50, a senior officer at the headquarters of NATO's allied land forces in southern Europe, was kidnapped by the Red Brigades on Dec. 16. No word has been heard from the guerrillas for a week, in contrast with their usual practice.

Police said wealthy Furrier Giuliano Ravizza, 56, was reunited with his family in Milan today after being held for three months by kidnappers in southern Italy.

His lawyers refused to disclose the size of the ransom but unofficial sources said it was close to $4 millioo. If confirmed, this would be one of the highest paid in the history of criminal abductions in Italy.

Saudi Arabia, Iraq set to sign border accord

BEIRUT, Dec. 26 (R) - Saudi Arabia's interior minister, Prince Nayef Ibn Abdul Aziz, arrived in Baghdad today to sign a border agreement with Iraq and discuss developments in the Gulf, the Iraqi News Agency INA reported.

Prince Nayef, quoted by the agency, said on arrival that he was carrying a message from King Khaled and Crown Prince Fahd to President Saddam Hussein.

"We wish to be in constant touch with our Iraqi brothers on the situation in our region and to affirm the fate-shaping cooperation between the two countries." he added.

The two countries have about 640 kms of common border, which was defined in the treaty of Mohammara in May, 1922. The new agreement follows talks last year to resolve some outstanding border problems.

Prince Navef's discussions are also expected to cover the 15month-old Irag-Iran war and the discovery of an Iran-backed plot to topple the government of Bahrain.

He said after signing a security agreement in Bahrain last week that Iran had become the terrorist of the Gulf. He also backed Iraq in its war with Iran.

Sattar arrives in Jeddah

JEDDAH, Dec. 26 (R) - President Abdos Sattar of Bangladesh arrived in Saudi Arabia today on a four-day state visit.

Mr. Sattar is expected to have talks with King Khaled on int-ernational and Middle East issues as well as bilateral relations, including Saudi economic assistance to Bangladesh. Saudi Arabia bas given more than $450 million in aid or grant to Bangladesh since 1975.

The president, who is accompanied by his foreign and finance ministers, will also visit the holy cities of Mecca and Medina while in Saudi Arabia. audi Arabia. Speaking to reporters before leaving Dacca earlier today President Sattar condemned Israel's annexation of the Golan Heights.

He said he hoped "the representative world bodies would be active in persuading Israel to desist from its aggression" on the Golan Heights and other Arab territories.

اعتبا المستحد وترهان مرابه

in a state of belligerency.

"Punitive actions are practised by countries that are at war with each other," said Moshe Arens, chairman of parliament's foreign affairs and security committee. in an interview broadcast by the state radio.

"This seems to be completely inappropriate to U.S.-Israel relationships," said Mr. Arens, who assumes his post in Washington next month.

The annexation of the Golan Heights on Dec. 14 has brought U.S.-Israeli relations to one of their lowest points in memory.

Defence Minister Ariel Sharon, in a newspaper interview published yesterday, said that "from Israel's standpoint, the 'strategic' agreement between Israel and the U.S. indeed exists" because there was nothing in the formal terms of the memorandum establishing the alliance which mentioned the possibility of suspending or pos-

Fahd puts off planned visit to Japan

JEDDAH, Dec. 26 (R) - Crown Prince Fahd of Saudi Arabia has put off a visit to Japan as well as a trip to the United States next month, a senior Saudi official said today.

Prince Fahd was to have made a four-day visit to Tokyo on Jan. 11 on his way to the United States. But the Sandi government said on Wednesday that Prince Fabd had agreed with President Reagan to postpone his U.S. trip, due td begin on Jan. 19, because of" the present circumstances in the Middle East in particular and the Arab World in general which required him to stay in the kingdom."

The announcement coincided with a visit by Syrian President Hafez Al Assad to Saudi Arabia at the start of a tour to enlist Arab support against Israel's ann-exation of the Golan Heights.

State Department Spokesman Dean Fischer has discounted any connection between the Israeli action and the postponement of Prince Fahd's visit to Washington.

Saudi Arabia has strongly backed Syria and urged the U.S. to take a firm stand against Israel. The Security Council has asked Israel to rescind its decisioo by Jan. 5 or face "appropriate mea-SUICS.

محكمة إحسنه لأحل

ation of An an po in his meeting last Sunday with

Asked whether he thinks that Jordan faces a direct danger at present, the King said that Jordan has always been facing dangers, which existed for the past 25 Arab countries.

that visit left him with an ene- King said that such plan has remouraging impression that the fou- ained on the Arab summit agenda ndation of friendship between and has become an Arab initiative Jordan and the United States, adopted by the majority of the

Answering a question on the

with Syria, the King said that that

The King also reiterated Jor-

Besides this, the King added.

He also warned that Israei con-

Jewish settlers threaten to renew violence against Israeli withdrawal

TEL AVIV, Dec. 26 (R) - Jewish settlers in Yamit have threatened to renew their violent campaign against Israeli wilhdrawal from Sinai, due 10 he completed by next April.

A meeting of the settlers' committee in Yamit yesterday voted to use violence to press demands for increased compensation from the Israeli govment, which is committed to evacuate the area under the terms of the Camp David peace treaty with Egypt.

Earlier this month settlers in Yamit harricaded the town for four days. They are now threatening to renew the campaign next week.

The problem is expected to be raised at a meeting of the Israeli cabinet tomorrow.

in hard currency. Egypt has offered the United States naval facilities at Ras Banas

on the Red Sea. The Soviet Union has the use of hases on the Dahlak

islands in Ethiopia and at Aden,

During the five-hour session

The prosecutioo has asked for capital of South Yemen.

security system of Red Sea states to keep the waterway clear for int-annual income of about S1 billion

Egypt calls superpower interference threat to area

CAIRO. Dec. 26 (R) — Egyptian Defence Minister Abdul Halim Abu Ghazala has said interference to move into crisis areas quickly. by superpowers is the greatest thrjoint exercises next year ... if we eat to the Middle East. In an interview published today felt we could not say no, that in the Egyptian magazine Octwould be a different matter," ober, the minister said" the soorce Gen. Abu Ghazala said. of the danger is great powers meddling in the area and obtaining regional advantages." "Egypt has no ambitions in Saudi Arabia or Libya for example, and the Arab states have no ambitions in Egypt," he added. He said Egypt's joint exercises with American troops last month was imposing its will on Cairo. The manoeuvres, codenamed "Bright Star", were designed to and editor of its magazine Al Daawa.

four left-wingers and 18 others.

not known how many had left prison.

Mubarak orders release of political, religious detainees

CAIRO, Dec. 26 (R) - Egyptian authorities today ordered the release of 39 political and religious detainees, including Omar Tel-

messani, senior member of the Muslim Brotherbood organisation

A statement issued by Egypt's prosecutor-general named seveo more members of the outlawed Brotberhood, nine Coptic Christians,

The late President Anwar Sadat ordered their arrest last Sep-tember in a round-up of 1,600 political and religious critics.

They were accused of stirring up sectarian hatred betweeo Egypt's majority Muslims and the Coptic Christian minority.

the detainees' health, age or other humanitarian reasons.

in the Cairo suburb of Zawya Al Hamra last summer.

The prosecutor's statement said the decision was taken" in view of

It said they could be released from this evening onwards, but it was

Mr. Sadat's successor, Hosni Mubarak, has promised to free any

President Mubarak has so far , cleased 47 detainees, most of them

detainces found to have no connection with bloody sectarian fighting secular politicians, lawyers and writers. Political sources said the policy had won Mr. Mubarak wide sympathy.

The general called for a regional The Suez Canal, at the northern Sadat's assassination trial resumes

"We could say we do not want

CAIRO, Dec. 26 (R) - The mil-itary court trying the alleged assassins of Egyptian president Anwar Sadat today rejected a defence request to call prominent religious and political figures to give evidence, military sources said.

connection with the Oct. 6 assleaders and a further attempt to assination said they wanted to question Sheikh Metwalli Shacall former foreign ministers Ismall Fahmi and Mohammad Ismail arawi, a religious broadcaster, and Sheikh Salah Abu Ismail, an outspoken Muslim member of parliament, oo the basis in Islamic law to keep the waterway clear for int-

"The shipping is vital for Egypt... bot security can only come through the cooperation and mutual understanding of countries

on the Red Sea." he said.

emational shipping.

peace process with tsrael. The defence pleaded that the late president's foreign policy contributed to unrest at home, especially among young Muslim ext-mitted to the court his written answer to "the missing duty", a. pamphlet in which one of the defendants argues the case for jihad (holy war) against unjust rulers.

Farag, misinterpreted verses of the Koran and sayings of Prophet Mohamad.

ruled against calling the religious

Sudan, Egypt start military talks

CAIRO, Dec. 26 (R) - Defence Minister Abdul Magid Hamid Khalil arrived here today to attend meetings of an Egyptian-Sudanese military coordination, committee.

Egypt and Sudan are bound by a mutual defence pact for close military cooperation.

Gen. Khalil was accompanied by Foreign Minister Mohamad Mirghani Mubarak who will also attend the meetings.

The Egyptian side of the cr.n-mittee includes Defence Minister, Gen. Abdul Halim Abu Ghazala and Foreign Minister Kamal Hassan Ali

Kamel as defence witnesses. Both ministers resigned in pro-test at the conduct of Mr. Sadat's for a plea of justifiable tyr-

Egypt's Grand Mufti (supreme remists. defence lawyers also failed to win annicide. religious judge) has already sub-

a ruling that the accused should not be held in solitary con-finement, the military sources The Mufti said the pamphlet, by alleged conspirator Abdul Salam said. the death sentence against the four alleged assassins and 20 oth-The court, meeting in closed session after a two-week recess, ers accused of possessing arms and of conspiracy to kill the president The trial cootinues on Monday.

did not mean the United States

Lawyers for the 24 accused in

NATONAL

Seminar aims to strengthen newly elected mayors' position

said.

By Samira Kawar Special to the Jordan Times

AMMAN, Dec. 26 - "The post of village mayor is no longer a matter of tribal prestige," Min-ister of Municipal and Rural Affairs and the Environment Hassan Alt Momani said this morning. In his opening remarks at a seminar for newly elected mayors, Mr. Momani said the job was "a responsibility entrusted to elected mayors to serve their village communities efficiently."

In his opening address at the week-long seminar, being held at the Public Administration Institute, Mr. Momani told the 20 village mayors and heads of municipal committees participating that the post of mayor is a test of the elected mayor's ability to shoulder the responsibility entrusted to him, and of his efficiency and capabilities. He stressed that care and good judgment must he exereised in the administration of municipal funds. These funds, he said, must be regarded as a public trust belonging to the state, which should not be plundered or wasted

The seminar is the fifth of a series intended to supply essential information to newly elected mayors on subjects having a direct bearing on their municipal duties, Mr. Momani said. The series is jointly sponsored by the Institute of Public Administration and the Ministry of Municipal and Rural Affairs and the Environment.

Many mayors serve their terms of office without acquiring adequate knowledge of the municipalities law and other matters necessary for the administration of their municipalities, Mr. Momani said. Thus, he explained, the officials are often obliged to depend on their assistants and secretaries who are better versed in legal matters, when making important decisions that are governed evant topics.

and the second s

The coordinator of the seminar, by legal and administrative con-Mr. Abdul Mubeeo Zeitoun, told siderations. Such a state of affairs the Jordan Times that an average weakens a mayor's position by of 25 mayors and beads of munenhancing the assistants' authority icipal committees attend the semat the expense of the mayor, he inars in the series, which began in

The organisation of seminars to educate mayors in legal and administrative affairs has been undertaken to forestall such a situation and strengthen the mayors' position, Mr. Momani said.

He urged the mayors not to be cowed by citizens, or to allow contraventions to go unchecked by their municipalities. He referred in particular to the issuance of building licences in cases where violations occur concerning proper spacing between buildings to allow for ventilation and privacy. Builders should be made aware that such violations have an adverse effect on themselves and neighbours, as well as on the public in general, he said. He strongly urged that an end be put to bui-Iding irregularities. Mr. Momani also urged all municipalities to complete their preliminary plans and begin to asp-balt roads. Referring to the collection of municipal taxes, he said that citizens are entitled to demand services and to receive them, but also have a duty to contribute towards their realisation. If collected, local taxes can be a good source. of revenue to municipalities and can help them to improve their services, he said.

Ten experts and academicians will lecture the participants during the seminar on administrative. procedural and legal matters relating to decision-making, leadership and chairing meetings; laws relating to municipalities, expropriation and the Development Bank for Municipalities and Village Councils; town and village planning, and other rel-

Unionists call meeting on permit waiver for Egyptians

AMMAN, Dec. 26 (J.T.) - The General Federation of Jordanian Labour Unions has called for a meeting to be held here on Jan. 3 to discuss the effects of the government's decision to exempt Egyptian nationals from residence permit requirements in Jordan. A federatioo spokesman said discussion will deal with the consequences of such a decision for industrial, agricultural and construction activities in Jordan. According to the federation's new topics bad been included in president, Mr. Shaher Al Majali, a the current seminar, because pardetailed memorandum on the subticipants in previous seminars had ject will be discussed at the meeinquired about them. The new ting, to which Minister of Labour material includes procedures for Jawad Al Anani and Minister of chairing meetings: civil service Industry and Trade Walid Asfour have been invited. regulations, censorship and ins-pection, and public services. Many mayors were ignorant of the procedures for the appointment and promotion of civil servants. Mr. Zeitoun explained, and it is hoped

February 1981. The current seminar is attended by 12 mayors from Irbid Governorate, two from Karak Governorate, one from

Jerasb districts and three mayors¹

from Mafraq District. Their communities have an average pop-

Mr. Zeitoun said that several that the seminar will help remedy

AMMAN, Dec. 20 (J.T.) - The

dean of the University of Jordan's

Faculty of Shari'a, Dr. Abdul Aziz

Al Khavyat, has said that the Association of Islamic Universities has decided to open a branch in

Dr. Khavyat returned home

recently after participating in the meetings of the executive bureau of the association in Rabat, He said that the bureau discussed the possibility of some Islamic universnies joining the association.

and the date and venue of its next

Islamic universities

plan centre in Amman

ulation of 3,500.

this problem.

Amman.

general congress.

each of the Zarga, Madaba and

Tarawneh and Amman Chamber association's research centre and the development of its magazine.

He said the participants in the research centre in Rabat.

Meeting seeks solution to backlog of goods at Aqaba

AMMAN, Dec. 26 (Petra) — The transport shortage for imported goods now accumulated at Aqaba was discussed at a meeting held at the Amman Chamber of Commerce today.

Transport Minister Ali Suheimat, who chaired the meeting, promised he would make a detailed study of the problem and find the most appropriate solution to it.

The meeting was attended by representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the garage owners' union, truck owners' union and clearing and fowarding companies.

logists' Association, the Natural Resources Authority, the Jordan

Phosphate Mines Company and

the Arab Mining Company. The delegation will submit research papers on rock formations in the north of Jordan, mineral waters

near the Dead Sea and Wadi

Araba and ground water and geological construction of rocks in other parts of the country.

proposed for

Abu Nuseir

AMMAN, Dec. 26 (J.T.) - The

Ministry of Industry and Trade's Department of Energy has proposed the establishment of an independent power station to supply

the new Abu Nuseir Housing Estate with electricity instead of linking it to the national grid, the

the cost of the power station, JD

1.6 million, could be recovered within the first year of operation.

the report said. The study said the power station would be expected to bring in JD 2 million every year.

It added that the station's waste energy, particularly steam, could be used to air-condition the bui-

The press report said the ministry would refer this study to the ldings of the estate.

cabinet.

local press reported reported. A study of this issue shows that

Generator

Baghdad geology meeting set

AMMAN, Dec. 26 (Petra) - Jordan will take part in a geological conference which will open in Baghdad on Monday. During the four-day conference. 67 research scientists from Iraq and other Arab states will be discussing subjects connected with the Arab World's geology, water and mineral resources.

Jordan's delegation will comprise representatives of the Uni-versity of Jordan, the Jordan Geo-

Firms support alarm system

AMMAN, Dec. 26 (Petra) - Civil Defence Director Khaled Al of Industry Director Ali Dajani today made a tour of the Jordan

Petroleum Refinery Company. the Jordan Electricity Authority and the Jordan Insurance Company. They met with officials at the companies and discussed the implementation of a rapid alarm sys-Dr. Kbayyat, who was elected tem that will guarantee speedy the association's president for the contact between business firms Arab and Islamic east, added that and factories on the one hand and the Civil Defence Directorate on the forthcoming congress will be held in Jeddah next summer to the other, in case of fire or other discuss a number of issues, pardangers. ticularly the completion of the Officials of the three firms pledged effective support for and contributions towards the implementation of the project.

Rabai meeting recommended more scholarships and grants for Meanwhile, the Civil Defence Directorate announced today the closure of a number of factories in students from Asian and African states, and decided to establish a Amman for their violation of public safety regulations.

NATIONAL NEWS BRIEFS

Medical conference set for Baghdad

AMMAN, Dec. 26 (Petra) - The Jordanian Medical Association will take part in the 21st annual Arab medical conference, which is due to open in Baghdad on March. 3. Participants in the two-day conference will discuss treatment of emergency cases, general health affairs and preventive medicine, as well as health matters in times of war and the rehabilitation of persons disabled because of war and civil defence operations. Arab and foreign physicians are expected to attend the conference.

Bahrain fair to highlight food

AMMAN. Dec. 26 (Petra) — The Amman Chamber of Com-merce has received an invitation to participate in a general trade fair on foodstuffs, to be held in Bahrain between Jan 11 and 14 The chamber distributed copies of the invitation of Jordanian merchants, to notify them of the fair and find out if they would be participating in the fair.

Fines for mischievous merchants

AMMAN, Dec. 26 (Petra) - A Jordanian merchant, Kazen Yousef Al Barq, will have his store closed for two weeks, and will he imprisoned for one month, on the orders of the military com for violating Ministry of Supply regulations. Two other mer-chants, Abdul Latif Ramadan Nabhan and Ma'an Abdul Latif Awamleh, have been fined JD 100 and JD 150 respectively for similar offences. Twenty other merchants have been fined JD 50 each by the ministry court for violating supply regulations. The military governor yesterday endorsed the sentences.

Al Husn gets JD 73,000 loan

IRBID, Dec. 26 (Petra) - Al Husn Municipality has received a JD 73,000 loan from the Arab Cities Organisation. The city's mayor said that the loan will be used to finance the establishment of a cultural and social centre in the town.

WHAT'S GOING ON

Exhibition

* Paintings, entitled "Desert", by Princess Wijdan Ali at the Alia Art Gallery. Closing today.

Lecture

* Entitled Update on Specific Child Psychiatry Disorders: Movement Disorders, Minimal Brain Dysfunction. By Dr. Walid Sha qum, associate professor of child psychology at the University of Missouri, M.o. At 2 p.m. in the Jordan University Hospital auditorium.

ALilandado

JORDAN TIMES, SUNDAY DECEMBER 27, 1981

NATIONAL

BOOK REVIEW

Visual images of Palestine

By Samira Kawar Special to the Jordan Times

OVER THE past 30 years, the West has come to recognise, often grudgingly, the existence of the Palestinian cause, cooveniently and summarily referred to as the "Palestinian issue." This recognitioo was first coloured by the stereotype of the passive, unfortunate réfugee and later by the stereotype of the "violent" commando. Very little else was known about the deeply-rooted origins of the Palestinians' feelings of oational identity and their claims to independent statehood - feelings and claims springing from the collective memory of a well-settled society and a loog-standing culture, disrupted hy the est-ablishment of the Zionist state in 1948.

There bave been many sch-olarly studies oo the political aspect of the Palestinian cause, but very little has been written on the social and economic Palestinian lifestyle prior to the 1948 exodus ioto exile. Hence, Sarah Graham-Brown's extended photographic essay, Palestinians and their Society, 1880-1946; is an apt and timely tool that is iodispensable to anyooe wishing to gain better understanding of the Palestine question and new insight into the deep-seated feelings of natiooal and cultural ideotity.

The author told the Jordan Times in a recent interview that ber book does indeed have a political aim: that of combating Zinnist claims that the Palestinians had not had a sophisticated, wellestablished and complex social fabric at any time prior to 1948 and that the population of Palestine had been a handful of easily transferable, primitive bedouins.

The need to emphasise the various aspects of Palestinian society in the late 19th and early 20th centuries arises from the politically motivated efforts by "others" to e the fact that Palestinian society was a settled, predominantly peasaot society, whose members practised a wide range of crafts, light industries and agriculture. The author, however. modestly prefers not to refer to her book as a comprehensive, scholarly study of Palestinian society during the period in question, hut rather as an attempt to provide an "introduction to the range of a possible social and historical study of Palestine." Besides the specific aim of shedding light on Palestinian society prior to the 1948 dishursement, the book has the more geoeral aim of giving "an impressiooistic view of the relation, and interactioo betweeo a particular oation's social and political history and some of the images which were made of that history." Miss Grabam-Brown is particularly interested in the way photographs can be used to study a natino's social history and the specific prohlems of interpretation arising from the use of still pictures as historical evidence of the workings of a society. The 250 photographs run either singly or in collages throughoot the 184-page book, sometimes interspersed with the explanatory text, and sometimes in an unbrokeo series which includes extended captions indicating the meticulous research and painstaking process of gathering facts and details undertaken by the author. The book, published by Quartet Book Limited in 1980, is available in both hardcover and paperhack form. Through the use of photographs taken by the rulers, the ruled and those who were passing through (mostly Western tourists), the book gives a coherent and well-documeoted account of many characteristics Palestinian society from the final stages of Ottoman rule to the last stages of the British mandate over Palestine The author's preoccupation with the mode in which visual imagery, particularly pho-tographs, is absorbed by the viewer withoot conscious analysis of the content runs throughout the book. Her earnest concern to explain that a photograph is a "frozeo moment in time", that has been abstracted from its oatural and chronological setting and context, is everpresent alongside the fac-tual details of Palestinian society which she provides in the extended captions and the text. She feels that the way in which pictures can distort the evidence that they are supposed to be giving cannot be overemphasised. Like any other form of evidence, whether it he a table of statistics or a written documeot, photographs must be "unpacked and unravelled" before they can be interpreted for use as historical evidence with an acceptable degree of certainty. Thus, a taut sense of tension per-meates the eotire book: tensino between the author's contentioo that photographs present a "limited perspective reflecting the social and ideological persuations" of the photographer, as well as those of the author of a photographic essay, and between her own use of the photographs she has selected in the book as evidence of the Palestinian lifestyle that she des-pictures, based on research and interviews. This has the effect of showing the clear discrepancies between the predetermined image that the photographer was trying to capture, and even impose on his subjects, and the down-to-earth reality of the subjects and scenes appearing in the pictures.

Far from expecting the readers to full-heartedly agree with her interpretations of the pictures, Miss Graham-Brown says that disagreemeot may indicate a new consciousness and awareness of the importance of not accepting photos at face value and may be fruitful in provoking more detailed and deeper studies of Palestinian society, both of which support ber purpose in writing the book.

society were captured and interpreted by their European rulers during the mandate period in Palestine. Heoce the book is important in explaining how the seeds of present-day stereotypes of Palestinians, concoting helpless ref-ugees and violent guerrillas, are implicit in earlier depictioos.

Another stereotype that per-vades the pictures of Palestinian society taken by Europeans is engendered by the imposition of the already preconceived ideas of orientalists concerning the cha-racteristics of Middle Eastern societies and peoples.

This tendency on the part of European photographers to impose a preconceived image on their subjects distorted their reality in two ways: first by injecting into the pictures a sense of fascination with the exotic, uofamiliar and strange characteristics with which the Europeans believed the Middle East and its population were endowed, and then by preoccupying themselves with artistic consideratioos, often leading to gross distortinns of the subject and the environment. Subjects would be dressed as bedouins and taken against a colourfully painted backdrop in the photographer's studin. for example.

In another sense, the influence of the European discipline of orientalism had the more serious effect of attaching labels to what were seen to be the various seg-

Another perspective through which European photographers viewed and depicted Palestinian society was specific to Palestine itself. The equation of Palestine with the Holy Land has coloured Western attitudes towards Palestine for almost 2,000 years. Many of the pictures of Palestinian society were taken to cater to European customers who were preoccupied with the Holy Land. Instead of being taken for their own intrinsic characteristics and contemporary value, subjects were deliberately posed and manipulated to form "biblical allegories". Names and dates were tions to convey a sense of timelessness appropriate to the des-ired biblical effect. Often, no captions existed at all, particularly when the hiblical allusion was supposed to be self-explanatory from the picture itself. A group of peasants would he posed in a way that would immediately evoke recognition of "the holy family" by a European viewer, although the subjects may not have been related at all.

The author skillfully defuses these pictures of their bihlical connotations, showing how unrealistic their intentioo is and contrasting it to her own analyses of the material details of Palestinian peasant life appearing in the pictures.

The author also uses photographs of Palestinians takeo by Palestinians themselves. These usually portray the more powerful rich landowners and middle class townspeople, who in cootrast to the peasants, had the means of controlling the production of their own images and inscribing their identities on the backs of the photos or in captions. Although these pictures are seen hy the author as having a limited usefulness in depicting Palestinian life, they are nevertheless indicative of a certain lifestyle enjoyed by the more privileged Palestinian class and Miss Graham-Brown uses them to shed light on how the members of that class used symbols of status, social class and even nationalism to identify themselves in photographs,

Thus, the book shows that the process of interpreting these historical pictures must include an effort to understand and counter the manipulation of the subjects and scenes by the photographers to produce the effect dictated hy personal and cultural preferences and ideological persuasions. The author explains that photographers can distort not merely hy manipulating the poses, dress and hackground of the subject photographed, hut also by selecting certain details of a scene while omitting others, by using light to accentuate or deemphasise the hackground and by attaching captions drawing attention to only ooe aspect in the picture, such as the fact that women are vieled, or a man is riding a donkcy. Another aspect of interpretatino is the manipulatioo of the pictures by the author or interpreter who is putting them together. The author of a photographic study can select certain pictures and ignore others. Another factor hearing on the int-erpretation of pictures in a historical social study is their juxtapositioo in collages and the combined effect they can be made to give as opposed to the effect of a photograph used alone. The way a text is allowed to ioterrupt a chain of photograph, or is itself broken up by photographs, is another fac-tor determining the effect that an interpreter allows a series of historical photographs to give. Certain aspects of historical oarrative, such as those dealing with coercion and power relationships, are not revealed by photographs, according to Miss Graham-Brown. This aspect was of paramount importance in a oar-rative of Palestinian society, which was ruled by the British mandate tbat facilitated Zionist colonisation of Palestine, sometimes forcibly. The author has tried to surmount this bandicap hy collages and uobroken series of pictures clarified by extended cap-tions., all of which depict and explain Palestinian resistance to British complicity in the estahlishment of a natiooalist home for the Zionist in Palestine. The book effectively explains the mode in which Zionism sys-tematically colonised Palestine by bringing out the separatist character of the Zionist colooialist movement and its effect in slowty undermining the structure of Patestinian society. In spite of the fact that the book deals with the geoeral aspects of historical photographic studies and despite the author's claim that her endeavour is no more thao an experiment on bow a pbotographic study of a society's history can be done, the book remains valuable in giving a much-oceded idea of Palestinian society before it was forcibly hrokeo up by the state of Israel.

A home in the hilly region around Jerusalem (taken in the 1920s or 1930s)

مستجاميا بمجوعا الانجاج فالمحد والنبا الأبامة المستجودين ومحاور ومحاد الالتجام التحتين الدينا متما مستستان وال

Checkpoints, searches and restrictions on movement became a regular feature of life during the cribes. Far from having a negative effect which detracts from the force and coherence of the book, this tensioo is turned into a fruitful interrelation between the "material and social evidence which can be gleaned from the pictures and that which the author herself provides through painstaking research oo the one hand, and what the photographer thought he or she was capturing through his or her lens on the other hand." Thus, the author's extended captions utilise the original ones used by the photographers as an indication of what they thought they were capturing. The captions also indicate the author's commeots, gleaned from careful material analysis of the conteots of the tree-painted screen:

1937-1938 rebellion. Here police search an Arab bus on the Jerusalem-Jaffa road.

One of the main problems rai- ments of oriental population. sed and analysed in the book is the Bedouins were both conceived of way in which the use of pho- and depicted as wild, cruel, free tographs as historical evidence of and enjoying a high-standard a society's fahric leads to the cre- moral code. Peasants were dep-

Page 3

ation and perpetuation of stereotypes. The majority of the photographs were taken hy Europeans for Europeans. As colonisers, the Europeans had a tendency to view the colonised as passive, helpless subjects to whom things merely happened. Attempts to resist changes being inflicted on their societies and cultures in the oame of progress towards a Europeao lifestyle were intimages of Palestinians and their Orientalism.

View of a 'bedouin chief' - far away from the clean desert air-posed in Bonfils' studio in front of a paim icted as backward, ignorant and deficient in the high morals of the bedouins. The oriental townsman was depicted in much the same way as the peasant, except that he was also cunning and fawning.

As Miss Grabam-Brown pointed out, the concept of orientalism's influence on depicting the Middle East and creating and perpetuating stereotypes of the orient, which even Middle Easerpreted as "violent". The author terners began to accept as truths contends that these European att- about themselves, is adequately itudes affected the way in which 'explained by Edward Said's book.

> JERUSALEM MELIA New Year's Eve Gala Dinner at Royal Restaurant (Rooftop)

A wellcome Champagne Cocktail Special Cotilion bag for fun Four course Menu with wines Melia's surprise dessert with Champagne

Live Band Spanish Flamenco show Midnight 12 grapes of Good Luck Spanish breakfast for those who will stay untill sunrise Many presents but The jackpot "One week in Spain" for the lucky couple

Price: JD 30 per person includes a glass of wine with each course

New Year's Disco A 'Go-Go' at Al Yarmouk Restaurant (Ground floor)

> First drink on the house Special Cotilion bag for fun A buffet with a variety of Oriental & Spanish Specialities Presents Tombola Price : JD 15 per person

For Reservation Tel. 65121-4 ask for Mr. Emilio Balduque.

1325 4

1 and the second

Responsible Editor: Board of Directors MOHAMMAD AMAD JUMA'A HAMMAD RAIA ELISSA Editor: MOHAMMAD AMAD RAMI G. KHOURI MARMOUD AL KAYED Managing Editor: Advertising Manager FERNANDO FRANCIS MAAZ D. SHUKAYR

Editorial and advertising offices: JORDAN PRESS FOUNDATION University Road, P.O. Box 6710, Animan, Jordan. Telephones: 67171-2-3-4. TIx. 21497 Al Rai JO, Cables: JORTIMES, Amman, Jordan,

The Jordan Times is published daily except Fridays Advertising and subscription rates are available from the Jordan Times advertising department

On earth peace

"GLORY BE to God in the highest, and on earth peace, goodwill towards men." These words, spoken on the first Christmas, are recited, chanted and sung every year. The Christmas celebrations of this winter are no exception.

The traditional salutations, pious expressions and calls for peace and love may get to sounding a bit trite and worn-out at times. But that warm feeling does have a tendency to reassert itself in the company of loved ones and friends: almost in spite of oneself, it seems. One tends to feel that there must really be something to it all.

We are supposed to feel these sentiments all the more strongly because of our proximity to the place where the whole story started. With Bethlehem only a few kilometres away, the thinking goes, we ought to be able to catch the true spirit of Christmas. But our joy is dampened by the thought of what really goes on in that Bethlehem of today. Any pilgrims who made it to the site of the Nativity with their spirits yet uncowed, we expect, would be less than delighted at the sight of heavily armed Israeli soldiers surrounding the celebrations.

Bethlehem--and the rest of the Holy Land--are now so saturated with repression and fear that it is hard to recall that it was here that the Gospel message was first heard. There is little peace, even less goodwill among those in power and those living under occupation. And surely, whoever's glory is being proclaimed under the areligious creed of Zionism, it isn't that of God.

We are left to hope, as we have on so many Christmases in years past, that next year may bring some change, and a spark of truth and justice may begin to shine.

Jordan Times Reagan hopes to achieve a more realistic SALT

JORDAN TIMES, SUNDAY DECEMBER 27, 1981

By Jeffrey Antevil

THE Reagan administration, despite the urging of arms control advocates that it seek to renegotiate SALT IL, has decided to scrap the moribund treaty and propose a radical new approach to uclear arms control. This conclusion emerged from interviews with Pentagon and State Department officials who told Reuters the administration was conducting a review expected to produce an entirely new proposal calling for major cuts in nuclear arms. "Key decisions about the U.S.

negotiating stance still must be made," they said.

Despite their complexity and some disputes within the administration, the officials predicted this would be done in time to fulfil the president's commitment to open a new round of strategic arms talks with Moscow early next

Secretary of State Alexander Haig and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko are to hold preliminary discussions on this subject in Geneva late next month. Arms control advocates, including members of the administration of former President Jimmy Carter, have urged the new Kremlin. administration to use the Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT II) signed by Mr. Carter and Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev in 1979 as a soarting point. By proposing amendments to correct what Mr. Reagan calls "fatal flaws", in SALT II, which took three U.S. administrations a successor treaty could be written fairly quickly, assuming Moscow's agreement. Reagan administration officials said, however, they were not considering renegotiating the 1979 pact, which was shelved after the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.

"No one in this administration wants to go hack and renegotiate SALT II," Assistant Defence Secretary Richard Perle said in an interview.

"Mr. Perle, Pentagon Strategic Weapons Planner, is pushing for what he calls radical new ideas, including a way to measure U.S. and Soviet nuclear arsenals that would take into account the expone.' losive power of their weapons along with their numbers. He also wants the new treaty 10 be much shorter and simpler than SALT IT's 67 pages of "unintelligible technical jargon." Bes-ides these technical changes, he said, it should provide for actual and substantial reductions in hoth nations' nuclear arsenals, not just a ceiling at existing levels.

Conceding the similarity to the "deep cuts" plan Moscow harshly rejected in 1977, he insisted Mr. Carter might have succeeded if be had "hung tough" and pushed the

Moreover, the Soviet Union might be more inclined to accept such a proposal in light of the new administration's obvious determination to rebuild American military strength, he said.

Mr. Perle said a unit of comparison should be adopted for all U.S. and Soviet nuclear forces, seven years to negotiate, they say, taking account of total explosive power, known as throw-weight, but leaving each nation with wide latitude to deploy its weapons within treaty limits.

"We would stop telling the Soviets how to design their missiles. and they would stop telling us how to design ours." Starting over along these lines would be faster and far better" than trying to resurrect a treaty that had been sharply criticised by Mr. Reagan, Mr. Perle himself and others, he said.

A high Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA) official who was involved in neg-otiating SALT II agreed that in the new administration's deliberations "we are back to square

The official, who asked not to be identified, said "we are not even close to a decisinn" on Mr. Perle's proposals. He said a way would have to be found to include more than just numbers of warheads, missiles or bombers in a new treaty, but this would raise major technical and political problems.

for example, are less accurate than land-based ones, thus less suitable for a first strike on enemy missile silos, but they are also much harder to find, making them more valuable for retaliation after an attack.

Another technical problem is that U.S. and Soviel nuclear forces are not symmetrical. Only a quarter of U.S. nuclear warbeads are land-based, compared to three-fourths of Moscow's, so there may be no way to devise a single measure for the two sides' forces.

Perhaps more important is the political problem raised by the Perle proposal, the ACDA official said.

Mr. Perle and other conservatives have long argued the Soviets have a five-to-one throw-weight advantage, more than offsetting a U.S. advantage in numbers of missiles.

The official said it was hard to imagine Moscow accepting a formula that would reduce or eliminate its advantage. As for Mr. Perle's call for a short and simple treaty, the official said "good luck." International accords have a tendency to grow longer as they are being negotiated, be said, add-

I don't think those of us who worked on SALT II set out to make it long and complicated. It just turned out that way."

Such arms control advocates as the private Arms Control Ass-nciation (ACA) remain doubtful that a totally new treaty can be negotiated faster than an ame-nded version of SALT II. They are also sceptical of administration claims that Moscow would accept deep cuts in nuclear weapons.

The association's executive director, William Kinkade, told reporters: "You need to stop a vehicle before you can put it in reverse gear.

-- Reuter

boldly optimistic David Housego and Terry Dod-sworth interview France's amb-"Our philosophy is strongly competitive Each time the state

France's Rocard

asks a company to do more than sound competition would require of it, then the state must compensate it. A company that is run at a permanent loss adopts a mentality of security that is no

tore planning to the eminence it should run at twice the pace of West Germany, Mr. Rocard has not much faith in planning based on macro-economic forecasts. Mr.

Mr. Rocard says that his decision to omit a macro-economic framework was deliberate and carefully weighed. He believes that macro-economic forecasis amid the present uncertainties of the world economy do not have the change of government in Fra-

Rather than face the risk that such forecasts become untenable,

he prefers to try to accustom

French public opinion to the broad goals of 3 per cent growth a year over the next two years, a hoped for reduction in the rate of inflation and stabilising unemployment next year before hri-

For Mr. Rocard, the "great gamble" of the immediate future is whether private manufacturing investment will recover. "The strategy of the two-year plan, "he says, "is based on private investment laking off. So is the gov-the areas in which planned exp-enditure is to rise fastest is in the value of aid to industry."

emment's 1982 budget. One of -

Mr. Rocard believes that the private sector's reluctance to inv-est is a "temporary psychological nging it down in 1983.

Mr. Rocard clearly wants to res-longer productive," he says.

tious new Planning Minister

PARIS: "I don't know if it will be possible," says Mr. Michel Rocard, France's minister of planning, "but I would be prepared to write into the five year plan (1983-88) an economic growth target for France twice that of West Germany's."

achieved in France during the 1950s and 1960s, when it was syn-Amhitious, fertile in ideas, intonymous with high economic entionally provocative. Mr. Rocgrowth. Its influence later decard seemed to have suffered a lined under President Giscard major sethack to his political card'Estaing, who disliked the coneer after he unsuccessfully chacept of planning because be felt it llenged Mr. Francois Mitterrand was too interventionist and smaas the Socialist Party's candidate eked of Socialism. He also disliked for the Presidency three years ago. the planners' austere policies of But as one of the popular middle the time because they pointed to a of the road "Social-Democrat" lower standard of living. ministers in the Government and with still a substantial following in In spite of bis tongue in check the Socialist Party, Mr. Rocard ambition that the French economy has over the past six months been quietly rebuilding his influence and that of the Planning Ministry. He reacts strongly against public statements hy his ministerial Rocard's two-year intermediary colleagues implying that the plaplan (1982-83) has been criticised aning ministry - Mr. Rocard was by employers' organisations and e put there partly to keep him out of trade unions for its lack of an ecothe front line of executive autnomic framework to help comhority - will have a subordinate panies make decisions. More cynically, they believe it reflects some role in deciding and implementing of Mr. Rocard's possible doubts the policies of the much enlarged about the two years ahead. nationalised sector.

"In the spring," he says, "a bill will be put to the National Assembly setting out the procedures for drawing up the plan. At that moment we could have some difficult decisions on allocating responsibilities. Until those have much value and that, inevitably, been taken there is uncertainty. But I shall see there is no uncnce has added an uncertainty of its ertainty after that. I may win or lose but I won't let the uncertainty continue, Mr. Rocard believes that the ministry of planning will have a substantial role to play. His idea is that the nationalised sector should be divided into two - public services, such as railways and utilities, on the one hand, and companies exposed to international competition on the other.

An inter-ministerial committee would translate the government's priorities in the plan into contracts applicable to different state enterprises. The task of actually negotiating the contracts and seeing that they are carried out would lie with the ministers concerned. For example, the transport minister would deal with railways and the minister of industry would handle the manufacturing sector.

"But there will also be a record prepare it. Thal will be the job of my ministry," Mr. Rocard notntedly adds. The planning ministry would also ensure that state enterprises followed common methods. Thus, the ministry would be concerned with the external balance of payments of each group; its exports and overseas requirements for patents and research licences; with the "social" policies it pursued; with its research policy; and with the decentralisation of inv-'estment. Mr. Rocard adds that he has a front-line function in the latter area because of his shared responsibilities for decentralisation. Mr. Rocard stresses that state enterprises must be run on a competitive basis. If the state asks them to perform public services, like running uneconomic branch lines for the railways, then it must compensate them.

ARAB PRESS COMMENTARY

King Hussein addresses Arabs

AL RA'I: His Majesty King Hussein has called on the Arabs to be honest with themselves and warned them against the dangers threatening the Arab Nation.

In an interview with Al Nahar Al Arabi Wa Al Duwali magazine, the King explained that these dangers are represented in the boundless Israeli ambitions and in the current Arab situation. He said that the size of the problem is not manifested in the Israeli annexation of the Golan Heights but in Israel itself. He pointed out that Israel threatens the very Arabs' existence while Zionism is seeking to internationalise the conflict in this Arab region. This internationalisation is bound to hurl the Arabs into a whirlpool of international conflicts and jeopardises their freedom, acbievements and future. This will also turn the Arab region into a bot spot which may threaten world peace.

The King also explained that the real solution lies in dealing with the Arah situation. Only then will the Arab Nation be able to measure up to the challenges facing it. This dealing with the Arah situation must take place at the highest level and must depend on our being bonest with ourselves.

The meaning of the King's statements is that it is the Arab leadership which is responsible to deal with the current Arab situation and to rise with it to the level of the eballenge that the prohlem being not one of Israeli excesses only but one of Israel itself, since the entire Arah existence is threatened by Israel.

The King's farsighted comments which show a real understanding of the issue should pave the way for the much needed joint Arab action. They are meant to alert the Arah leadership to rectify the inter Arah relations and to build the Arah intrinsie strength

We hope that the Arah leaders will hasten to embark on taking action because Sharon is threatening to implement measures similar to those on the Golan Heights elsewhere in the occupied Arah territories. Eitan is boasting that the Israeli military strength stops at no limits and the Israeli radio is praising the efforts being exerted to "ensure" a U.S. veto which will prevent imposing any international punishment on Israel.

We stress again that these developments do not give the Arab leaders any option hur to act promptly to transcend their differences and to resort to united action which dictates that they should be honest with themselves in the first place.

A call for unity

AL DUSTOUR: It is very important to resume the Arah summit conference as soon as possible in order to face the grave escalating events. But more important than this is the good and comprehensive preparation for such a conference if it is to be a successful meeting which can achieve the hopes pinned on it.

This fact was stressed by His Majesty King Hussein in his interview with Al Nahar Al Arahi Wa Al Duwali magazine. The King stressed the need for the Arab leadership to deal with all Arab issues on a pan-Arah level and to set up the string bases of comprehensive Arab solidarity. The aim of the summit should not be just to transcent differences but to establish a commitment to the interests of the nation, to defend its rights and to share no efforts in facing the gravest perils ever faced by the Arab Nation.

The King is of the opinion that the forthcoming Arab summit conference should deal with the Israeli aggression on the Golan Heighls, the Iraqi-Iranian war and the Lebanese issue. These are pan-Arab issues that should be dealt with by all the Arab leaders who have to reach a unified formula for joint Arah action and stand.

problem," reflecting employers' distrust of a socialist government. Mr. Rocard is concerned that 7 the higher growth will worsen a France's import bill and hence its a balance of payments. He points out that France imports 24 per cent of what it consumes. In the long run the only answers, as he sees them, to this structural weakness are to make savings in the nation's energy bill and to develop French industry where imports are abnormally high -- he mentions wood, leather and and machine tools. He believes the government sbould take a strongly int-erventionist line over machine tools, slimming the industry to p companies which can compete abroad or hold their own in the domestic market and abandon the rest

-- Financial Times News Feature

France attempts new deal with Third World

France's socialist President Frakey figure behind the Lome Conncois Mitterrand has surrounded himself with advisers experienced in development matters and eager for a "new deal" for the Third World. French aid is to increase and to focus more on rural development. That is the theory. In practice, it may prove difficult to restructure the complex web of French foreign policy. Francoise lonier, a senior reporter on the French news magazine L'Express.

World.

vention linking 57 developing natinns with Europe. He has been replaced in his European post by Edgard Pisani, a minister under former president Charles de Gaulie who joined the Socialist Party in 1975 and who is himself convinced that North-South relations are the crux of the present world CTISIS.

France's new policy is hased, at-

As soon as he was elected President of France, Socialist Francois Mitterrand began trying to bring about radical changes in France's policy towards the Third He chose colleagues who, in their different ways, have some experience of development prohlems, and who have been critical of French foreign policy over the past 30 years.

These include men such as Gaston Defferre. Minister for Home Affairs and Decentralisation, and, in the post of Counsellor to the Presidency, Regis Dehray, the famous Marxist revolutionary of the 1960s who fought alongside the Cuhan revolutionary Che Guevara in Bolivia.

But above all there is Foreign Minister Claude Cheysson, Commissioner of the European Economic Commission in Brussels from 1973 until this year, and the least in theory and in political thetoric, on a few simple principles.

First, the Socialist government wants to restore France's image as the home of freedom and human rights. Recent calls for a settlement of the Namibia question excluding South Africa and for responsible arms sales are an attempt to replace the cynicism and realpolitik which has characterised much French foreign policy with a little more moral principle and privileged treatment of nations which respect human rights. Second. the president and his ministers have together clarified their idea of a New Deal for the planet. Even before Minterrand's election. Chevision wrote on this at some length in the national daily newspaper Le Monde.

"Development", he explained, is a Third World right, but the market as conceived by classical economics is not able to respect this right because it is dominated by huge companies." He called for more aid and noted that "in any ease, developing the Third World is the only way of preventing the economic bankruptcy of the wea-; itby Western nations." The third principle guiding new

French policy is that of responsibility. France will no longer sell anything and everything at any price. Aid choices will be based on development needs rather than the balancing of a Francophone developing nation's budget. Underlying these principles is the conviction of President Mitterrand and his government that changes can actually be made, that world polnics should not simply be left to the two superpowers, nor the economy to the multinationals. The wave of conservatism and introspection which is currently sweeping industrialised countries must be resisted. All this marks a break with the past. France's policy towards the Third World has successively been marked by colonialism. Gaullism and the cynicism of the business world under President Valery Giscard d'Estaing. When France used to speak of the Third World, it meant Francophone Africa, where she played a key role through her relations with the new nations's leaders,

Former President Charles de Gaulle's policy was ambiguous, upholding both decolonisatinn and French domination. In 1964, during a tour of Latin America, be spoke of the fight against poverty. of aid given free of political pressure. But behind these words, there existed a tight business and political network in Africa which had been set up to benefit the French ruling elass.

With Giscard, French economic and industrial strategy outweighed the economie development of recipients of French aid. Africa was seen as a market. and industrialisation which benefited French firms was favoured. Hence France's interest in mineral resources and the nations which had them, such as Gabon, Camcroon, Ivory Coast and Zaire,

At the same time, France considered Francophone Africa to be its own backyard, and France was always ready to use military intervention to safeguard its inicrests, sending troops into Zaire. Mauritania, Central African Republic and Chad over one five-year period.

In 1978, France's aid budget reached $2.7 billinn, or 0.57 per cent of GNP, according to the OECD. But almost half this sum was allocated to French territories and regions overseas. The remainder was assigned to Fraacophone Africa and the Maghreh, excluding some of the poorest nations. Some 60 per cent of ntries further afin'd Cot promised French aid was tied to the ree-ipients purchase of French goods. In March 1980, the Development Aid Committee (DAC) of the OECD reproached Giseard s government for saving one thing and doing another. The DAC also criticised France for allocating too little multilateral aid.

But France's previous aid policies built up a complex web of procedures which is proving hard to rearrange. During the first few months of the socialist government, Jean-Pierre Cor, minister for ecoperation and devekopment, and Guy Penne, then responsible for Africa at the foreign ministry, were on the one hand reassuring those African leaders who had become used to the way things were done under Giscard, and were on the other hand trying to respond to the exp-ectations of those who were glad to see the Socialists come to power. Mitterrand announced the aid budget would double during bis seven-year term, and ordered that

French aid be remodelled. The aim is to make French aid more multilaleral and better coordinated to development projects: to concentrate on rural development to help certain countries achieve self-sufficiency in food; and to increase concern for cou-

he would take an interest in English and Portuguese-speaking Afr-

Mitterrand would like to see France play a key role in ensuring that global negotiations for a news world economic order result in concrete action. A series of intemational meetings in 1981 has given him the opportunity 10 air his views.

At the Ottawa summin in July he made a plea to U.S. President Reagan for a total revisinn of the international monetary system. not only to help the wealthy out of their crisis, but also to help the poor out of theirs. He also reiterated the need to tackle economic problems in the context of North-South relations.

He has laid special emphasis or the question of commodities. Within the EEC the French, along with the Danes and the Dutchi would like to review STABEX (; commodities stabilisation scheme linking the EEC and 60 dev: cloping nations) which they fees offers a satisfactory formula for stabilising the commodity market given better funding. The French are lobbying their European partners to put thei view once ngain to the Americans commodities and the internationa monetary system must be the pile lars of any global negotiatinns.

··· Eanhsci

حملة إحسد الأحل

JORDAN TIMES, SUNDAY DECEMBER 27, 1981

Baoshan - monument to

By Colina MacDougall and Alain Cass

BAOSHAN: Weary officials at the Baoshan

ECONOMY

Growth in world trade may double in 1982

TOKYO, Dec. 26 (R) - After a poor performance this year, growth in world trade in 1982 should more than double as industrial nations ease out of recession, according to the Japan External Trade Organisation (JETRO).

In its world trade forecast, the semi-official organisation said that in real terms (based on a constant 1975 dollar) world trade would rise 3.5 per cent to $1,238 billion after only 1.7 per cent this year, but still behind a 4.8 per cent increase in 1980. It expected a steady business recovery particularly after the first quarter of 1982, following lower U.S. intcrest rates and stable energy costs. On a nominal basis, this year's world trade showed a 0.5 per cent drop, the first decline in 23 years, but next year it should expand hy

9.2 per cent to $2,176 billion, it said. Next year, developed country imports would lead trade expeloping nations particularly oil producers, would level off. Most countries would maintain moderate export increases next year except for the United States, which can expect only a real 0.5 per cent rise because of lack of competitiveness, JETRO said. Japan can expect a far smaller rise in exports in 1982 of 4.4 per cent in real terms, after an increase of 11.3 per cent this year, while imports, which showed no growth this year, should grow 5.4 ansion while imports by devper cent.

steelworks, once the centrepiece of China's modernisation strategy, say that 50,000 workers are engaged in the construction of this ill-starred project. Nearly three years after work began on the greenfield site near Shanghai, this is not evident. The skyline is broken hy idle cranes. Thousands of unopened crates are stacked outside warehouses packed with precision equipment, which will not be used for at least three years.

The only sign of consistent activity at this monument to the inefficiency of Chinese planners is at the hlast furnace site, where the main structure is threequarters finished.

Baoshan was conceived as a major component of China's 1978 programme to double steel capacity by 1985 and reach the forefront of the world's industrial nations by the end of the century. Baoshan's output was to have been 6.7 million tonnes of steel a year -- more than one-fifth of China's present capacity.

to the wholesale ahandonment of the 1978 plan.

Baoshan escaped the axe in 1978, hut by 1980 - when the full impact of China's economic problems was evident - the leadership -cancelled Baoshan's second stage. the major part of its steel finishing capacity.

The project has been controversial, apparently dividing the leadership. distorting the economy and shaking the world business community's confidence in China's reliability.

After eight months of inactivity, work is slowly resuming on the site and compensation is being agreed with foreign contractors. Officials Judge's ruling barring Mobil's bid on anti-monopoly grounds and the Federal Trade Comat the complex speak, albeit uncertainly, of the first steel slabs coming off the production line in 1985.

But Mobil has stayed in the fight. It said recently The first phase of the project is it intended to buy 25 per cent of U.S. Steel's stock designed to produce 3 million and also disclosed an alternative takeover plan tonnes of crude steel and 500,000 tonnes of seamless steel tubes, half under which it would hold Marathon's reserves and is destin

The cancelled plans for stage two included a second blast furnace, a 2.1 million tonne capacity cold rolling mill and a 1.65 million

tonne hot strip mill. Compensation for the cancelled hot strip mill has been agreed with Japan's Mitsubishi. The Chinese put this at 11 per cent of the original contract price of approx-imately $300 million. Schloman-Siemag, the West German con-tractor for the cold rolling mill, is still negotiating. Four smaller contractors have settled for 8.5 per cent of the full contract price.

The auxiliary pier at Baoshan port will be ready to supply coal in 1982. Asked about the main pier one official replied: Chinese managers on the site are uncertain over how long the bigger projects will take. Peking appears to he rationing funds and the management has to go cap in hand to finance each stage. "The more we get, the sooner it will be completed." an official said.

Baoshan, which is probably the biggest single project in the country's history, was approved and put into effect with almost unseemly haste under Mao Tse Tung's chosen heir, the now demoted Hua Guofeng, with little apparent thought for the consequences to the steel industry and the economy. The successful struggle at the top. led by Deng Xiaoping. Io unseat Hua from the chairmanship of the Communist Party was partly focused on the split between those who favoured large industrial projects, and those who advocated developing consumer industries and upgrading China's heavy industrial base.

China's steel industry has been in trouble since the 1950s because of surplus crude production and not enough high grade iron ore or steel finishing facilities. Baoshan was originally conceived in part as an answer to these problems. It was designed to use high grade Australian ore and produce badly needed sheet steel.

In their haste to get the project started. China's planners overlooked the inadequacies of the Baoshan site. The Yangtse river required buge quantities of con-crete piling to support the weight of the structures, while Baoshan has no deep water port to accommodate hulk carriers from

Chinese inefficiency

The exact cost of Baoshan's first stage has not been finally cal-culated. Preliminary official esti-mates put it at around $8.5 billion.

This year, Baoshan is likely to swallow roughly more than 7 per cent of China's capital con-

Australia.

مەرەپ مەرەپ مەرەپ بەرەپ بەر

struction hndget. A battle is likely to be waged over whether Baoshan's second phase should be revived. "What China needs is finished steel." said one expert who has followed Baoshan's progress. "Having built stage one at vast expense they may be forced to go ahead in order to benefit from the economies of an integrated complex," be added. Officials already concede that Baoshan will need a second hlast

- Financial Times news feature

funds

furnace within four to five years of the completion of the first pbase. Blast furnaces require major

Although China's first big effort to import Western technology has proved a disaster, Chinese officials and managers seem to have learnt from this bitter experience.

The leadership is now more cautious in deciding how to allocate overhauis after such a period.

Page 5

U.S. car industry shows no signs of recovery

DETROIT, Michigan, Dec. 26 (R) — The slump in the U.S. car industry shows no sign of ending, with domestic manufacturers reporting that their sales in mid-. December slowed to their lowest for the period in 22 years.

The five companies sold 104,654 cars from December 11 to 20 compared with 151,751 sold a year ago. Though there were eight selling days this year against nine in 1980, the figures still rep-resented a drop of 22.4 per cent.

cars in mid-December, with dec-The sales total was the worst for lines ranging from 14.5 per cent any reporting period this year, while the daily sales rate of 13.082 for General Motors to 41.7 per was the lowest for mid-December cent for Ford, with Chrysler off 18 per cent. The other companies are since 1959.

For months sales have been generally running at their lowest for more than two decades, and the latest figures were the ninth in a row which fell below those of a year ago. This period includes the 1982 model year that began on October 1.

American Motors and Volkswagen of America. For the first 20 days of December, total car sales were 230,488, down 25 per cent from 325,420 in 1980, itself a depressed year. Sales for the year to date were 6,078,764, a 4.9 per cent decline

All five companies sold fewer from a year ago.

because of its interest in the Yates field, the largest proven U.S. oil and gas field after Alaska's Prudhoe

Marathon's management has already approved U.S. Steel's bid of $6.3 billion or $125 a share for 51 per cent of its stock. Mohil has offered $6.5

Wednesday's court decision also upheld a mission has pledged to fight a Mobil takeover for U.S. Steel gives up options to purchase Marathon shares

Bay field.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 26 (R) - The U.S. Steel Corporation says it will give up share purchase options it was granted in a takeover battle with the Mohil Corporation for control of the Marathon Oil Company

The Federal Appeals Court in Cincinnati ruled on Wednesday that the options were manipulative and illegal and the corporation said in a statement yesterday that it would not contest the judgement further.

The options granted by Marathon would have enabled U.S. Steel, if another company won the battle, to buy Marathon's 49.5 per cent share in the Yates oil and gas oilfield in Texas for $2.8 billion and $10 million of new Marathon shares at the bargain price of $90.

Mobil, the second largest oil company in

Since then, Peking has realised that it can neither afford nor digest buge quantities of foreign technology in one bite. A chronic power shortage. limited infrastructure, scarce foreign exchange. a glut of crude steel and the need to raise living standards have led

United States, is widely helieved to want Marathon oration.

the same reason.

billion, one dollar a share more.

is to the Amerada Hess Con-

young offshore oil industry.

mudilats on which it is built

OJORDAN TELEVISION

5:45 Live telecast from Irbid

CHANNEL 3

"Basketball match"

5:30

7:00

7:10

8:00

8:30

9:30

10:30

11:30

A STATE

Evening Show News Summary 21:00 Touch of Genius 21:03 Evening Show 22:00 Close down

VOICE OF AMERICA

03:30 The Breakfast Show: 06:30

News on the hour and 28 min. after each hour 17:00 News and New

Products (USA) 17:15 Critics Choice 17:30 Studio One 18:00 Special

English: News/Words and their stories, feature "People in America" 18:30 Music USA (Standards) 19:00 News and Topical Reports 19:15 News Horizons 19:30 Issues in the News 20:00 Special English; News Words and their stories 20:15 The Concert Hall

USA 21:15 Critics Choice 21:30

Athens

Athens, Zarich (SR)

..... Сало

Paris, London

New York, Vienna

.... Brussels, Geneva

.... Paris

.... Cairo

21:08 News and New Products

GMT

Studio One

BBC WORLD SER-VICE

04:00 Newsdesk 04:30 Music for

Strings 04:45 Financial Review 04:55 Reflections 05:00 World

News; British Press Review 05:15

Letterbox 05:30 Golden Treasury

05:45 Letter from America 06:00 Newsdesk 06:30 Jazz for the asking

07:00 World News; News about

Britain 07:15 From Our Own Cor-

ple Laugh? 19:00 Country Style 19:15 Radio Theatre: The Luck of the Draw 20:00 World News; Commentary 20:15 Leiterbox 20:30 Sunday Half-Hour 21:00

Words that Changed Lives 21:15

The Pleasure's Yours 22:00 World

News 22:09 Two Cheers for 1981 22:40 Reflections 22:45 Sportscall

23:90 World News; Commentary

11. 1917 - 197

Programme Preview 639, 720, 1413 KHz News in Arabic Arabic Series Documentary

GMT

..... Arabic Series

...... News in Arabic

Koran

CHANNEL 6 6:00 French programme 7:00 News in French 7:30 News in Hebrew 8:00 8:30 News in Arabic Focus Red Letters Day 9:10 News in English 10:15 The Love Boat

RADIO JORDAN 855 KHz, AM & 99 MHz, FM

7:80
7:01	Morning Show
7:30	News Bulletin
7:40
10:00	News Headlines
	Pop Session
11:00	Sign off
12:00	News Headlines
	Pop Session
	News Summary
	Pop Session
14:00	News Bulletin
	Instrumeutals
	vention and Discoveries Concert Hour
16:00	News Sommary
	Instrumentals
17:00	Listeners' Choice
	News Summary
	Jazz Hour
	Newsdesk
	Music
LTinT' mount respondent 07:30 Classical Record Review 07:45 Leave it to Psmith 08:00 World News; Reflections AMMAN AIRPORT 08:15 The Pleasure's Yours 09:00 World News; British Press Review FOR SUNDAY 09:15 Two Cheers for 1981 09:45 Sports Review 10:15 The Waltz 10:30 Religious Service 11:00 World News; News About Britain NOTE: The following airport arrivals and departures are provided to 11:15 Letter from America 11:30 Play of the Week 12:30 Baker's Half-Dozen 12:45 Operena 13:00 World News; Commentary 13:15 Good Books 13:39 World Service the Jordan Times by the Alia information department at Amman Airport, Tel. 92205-6. They should always be verified by phone before the arrival or departure of the flight. Short Story 13:45 The Sandi Jones Request Show 14:30 Frank Muir Goes Into... 15:00 Radio Newsreel 15:15 Concert Hall 16:00 World ARRIVALS: News: Commentary 16:15 From . Cairo (EA) our own Correspondent 16:35 Fin-ancial Review 16:45 Letter from America 17:99 World News; 2-45 Caro 8:55 ... 9:15 17:09 Dizzy and the Faery Queen 17:48 Reflections 17:45 9:30 Kuwait Sportscall 18:00 World News; 10:10 Beirus 11:05 News about Britain 18:15 Radio . Rivadh (SV 14:00 15:35 Newsreel 18:30 What Makes Peo-Jeddah (SV)

16:30 16:45

17:00

17:10

17:30

17:45

17:50

19:10

23:15 Letter from America 23:39 A 19:30 20:30 Beingt (MEA) 20:30 Frankfurt (LH) 21:55 Beiru 23-55 Baghdad Bachdad 01:00 01:00 Cairo (EA) 02:00 Baghdad

DEPARTURES:

. Cairo 6:45 Beirut 7:00 Aqaba 8-30 London (BA) 9:00 Rome (Alitalia) 9:00 Cairo (EA) 9.25 Beirut (MEA) 10:00 Frankfurt 10:30 Rome 11:15 Athens 11:30 . Cairo 12:05 Riyadh (SV) 13:00 Jeddah (SV) 15:00 16:30 Kuwait (KAC) 18:30 Beirus 18:45 Abu Dhabi 19:00 Kuwai 19:15 . Dhahrao 19:30 ... Jeddal 19:45 Baghdad 20:15 20:30 20:45 Bahrain, Doha 21:15 Bangkok 22.00 02:00

EMERGENCIES

Sa'id Sa'd 74730

Abdul Karim Al Khashashneh

83622

PHARMACIES:

DOCTORS:

Zarna

Neuoukh

Cairo (EA)

23672

Khamis 64511 Al Ja'fari 72679 Al Rawabdeh 66033 Irbid: Al Quds 3443 Zarua: TAXIS:

Talal 25021 Al Aman 65850 CULTURAL CENTRES

Goethe Institute 41993 Soviet Cultural Centre 44203 Spanish Cultural Centre 24049 Turkish Cultural Centre ... 39777 Haya Arts Centre 65195 Al Hussein Youth City 67181 Y.W.C.A. 41793 Amman Munscipal Library 36111 University of Jordan Library 843555/84344

SERVICE CLUBS

Lious Philadelphia Clab. Meetings every second and fourth Weil-nesday at the Grand Palace Hotel, 1.30 p.m. Lions Amman Club. Meetings every first and third Wednesday at the fotercontinental Hotel, 1.30 p.m. Rotary Club. Meetings every Tueslav at the lotercontinental Hotel. 2.00 p.m. Philadelphia Rotary Cinb. Mcctings every Wednesday at the Holiday Inn. 1:30 p.m.

MUSEUMS

Military Museum: Collection of military memorabilis dating from the Arab Revolt of 1916. Sports City, Amman. Opening hours 9 a.m.-4 p.m., Sunday to Friday. Clused on Saturdays, Tel. 64240. Foliciore Museum: Jewelry and cos-tumes over 100 years old. Also mosaics from Madaba and Jerash

Roman Thealre, Amman. Opening hours: 9.00 a.m. - 5 p.m. Year-round. Tel. 51760 Popular Life of Jordan Muscum: Itill to 150 year old items such as costumes, weapons, musical instruments, etc. Opening hours: 4.00 a.m. - 5.00 p.m. closed Tuesdays. Tel. 37169 Jordan Archaeological Museum: Has an excellent collection of the antiquities of Jordan. Jahal Al Qala (Citadel Hill). Opening hours: 9.00 a.m. - 5.00 p.m. (Fridays and official bolidays 10.00 a.m. - 4.00 p.m.). Closed on Tue-

(4th to 18th centurics). The suays. Jordan National Gallery: Contains a collection of paintings, ceramics, and sculpture by contemporary Islamic an ists from most of the Muslim countries and a collection of paintings by 19th Century orientalist artists. Muntazah, Jabal Loweibdeh. Opening hours: 10.00 a.m. - t.311 p.m. and 3.30 p.m. n.ftl p.m. Closed on Tuesdays. Tel. 3(1128

Ambulance (government)......

Civil Defence rescue

Police headquarters

Radio Jordan

Green onions

Coconut (piece)

Garlic

Spinach

Beans ..

Bananas

Tomatoes

Jordan Television

Municipal water service (emergency) 37111-3

PRAYER TIMES

5:08 Suntise 6:36 Dhahr 11:37 Asr 2:20 4:37 Maghreb 'Isha , 6:05

CHURCHES

Church of the Annuncistion (Roman Catholic) Jabal Luweibdeb 37440 St. Joseph Church (Roman Cat-bolic) Jabal Amman 24590 De la Salle Church (Roman Cat-holic) Jabal Hussein 66428 Church of the Appunciation (Greek Orthodox) Abdali 23541 Anglican Church (Church of the Redeemer) Jabai Amman 23585 Armenian Orthodox Church Ashrafich 75261 Armenian Catholic Church Ash-

RATES Saudi rival . 98.5/99 Lebanese pound 72.5/73. Syrian pound 57.4/57." fragi dinar 612/620.1 Kuwaiti dicar 1197.3/1201.6 Qatari riyal 92.3/92.8 UAE dirham 91.7/92.3 Omani riyal 974.3/978.3 U.S. dollar 337/339 U.K. sterling 636.6/640.4 W. German mark 148,4/149.3 Italian lire (for every 100) 27.9/28.1 French frane 58.7/59.1

LOCAL

EXCHANGE

Japanese yen (for every 100) 153.2/154.1 rafieh 71331 USEFUL TELEPHONE NUMBERS

Firstaid, fire, police 199 Fire headquarters 22090 Cablegram or telegram - 18

Information 12 Jordan and Middle East trunk calls Overseas radio and satellite calls 17 Telephone maintenance and repair service 11

MARKET PRICES

Bananas (Mokammar)	100
	180
Apples (Golden)	180
Apples (Double Red)	200
Apples (Starken)	- 180
Lemons	100
Oranges (Abu surra)
Oranges (Shamouti)	200
Oranges (Salahoun)	1 2r
Oranges (local)	- 94
Oranges (French) :	111
Cauliflowers	12
Tangerine	17
Bomali
	13 100
Tamps	100
Chestaut	40
Grapefruit
	7.
BEET	- 9

1 11 1 1 1	<
ا حسنه الأحل	rig

Eggplani Polatoes (imported)..... 150 Marrow (small)..... 100 70 250 150 Marrow (large) Cucumber (small) 360 Cucumber (large)..... Hot Grees Pepper 180 Sweet Pepper Cabbage Onions (dry) 120

350 200 120

100

250

250

140

320

300

260

.... 75111

... 39141

..... 73111 74111

61111

150 120 130 80 71 100 170 400 450

200

. • and a state of the second s

SPORTS

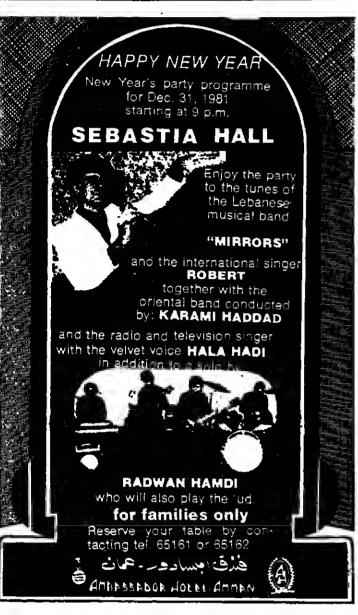

Phil Dent gets through to 2nd round of

Australian Open via a spectacular comeback

MELBOURNE, Dec. 26 (A.P.) - Veteran Australian Davis Cup tennis player Phil Dent staged a spectacular comeback against young South Australian John Fitzgerald in their opening round elash today in the $400,000 Marlboro Australian Open at Koovong.

Dent fell behind two sets to love and 0-4 in a third set tiebreaker, hut scrapped his way back in the match and defeated Fitzgerald

5-7, 3-6, 7-6, 6-3, 6-4. The 20-year-old Fitzgerald had the match snatched away from the match. him when he was just three points Even though he was serving, he away from a straight sets victory. Dent, who lost to American Tim Wilkison in the quarterfinals said winning the first game after the break was a major psychological advantage for him. of a tournament in Sydney last Fitzgerald said he was not serweek, started his comeback in a ving well, but added, "there is a lot tiebreaker, winning seven points of adrenalin involved when one in a row as he snatched the set away from the startled Fitzgerald. guy gets it going his way."

payout

next month.

If Edmondson recaptures the form that brought him victory

here over John Newcombe here in 1976, he stands to gain a lucrative

Apart from the $64,000 first prize for winning the title, he would pick up 350 Grand Prix points, giving him a berth in the eight-man Volvo Masters' tou-mament to be played in New York

would not he until the semifinal stage that he would get "psyched up" enough to think about win-

Third-seeded Roscoe Tanner

breezed through to the second round with a straight sets win over young Victorian Greg Whitecross. The American won 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

Romanian Ilie Nastase caused a ning the tournament.

lander Chris Lewis.

However, Edmondson said it

Earlier, former champion Mark The 31-year-old Dent said he Edmondson cruised through to becomes self critical during touthe second round with a 6-1, 6-2, maments, and after last week's 6-3 victory over Victorian Pat loss he was "steaming inside". Cash, the world's top-ranked jun-Dent said the opening game of IOT.

the fourth set, after he returned from an optional 10-minute break, was the most important in

West Indies in trouble at end of 1st day of test

MELBOURNE, Dec. 26 (R) -Australian fast holwer Dennis Lillee moved to within two wickets of a world record number of test dismissals when he destroyed the early part of the West Indies innings in the first cricket test today. Lillee took three for three in the final half hour of the day to the leave the touring team perilously placed at 10 for four in reply to Australia's first innings score of Lillee now has 308 test wickets-one short of the record held by West Indian Lance Gibbs. While the irrepressible Lillee was the crowd's favourite late in the day, former skipper Kim Hughes was the Australians' saviour after their innings had got off to an equally wretched start on the much criticised Melhourne pitch. Hughes hit a brilliant unbeaten 100. which included 11 boundaries, after the West Indian pacemen had sent back the first three batsmen for only eight runs.

Hughes was 24 short of his century when last man Terry Alderman came in hut he survived for almost an hour to add 43 with Hughes.

delay of several minutes during his Michael Holding, with five for 45, was the pick of the West Ind-4-6, 3-6, 2-6 loss to New Zeaian attack.

We are pleased to announce the opening

today of our

Studio

KEVORK

3rd circle,

China-New Zealand qualifier to be played in Singapore

ZURICH, Dec. 26 (R) — Singapore will be the venue for the World Soccer Cup qualifying play-off between China and New Zealand, the International Football Federation (FIFA) announced today.

FIFA said the match would take place on January 10 and named Romoaldo Aropi Filho of Brazil as the referee.

New Zealand, who earned a play-off by beating Saudi Arabia 5-0 to share second place with China in the Asia-Oceania qualifying group, protested earlier this week when FIFA announced the venue as the Malaysian capital of Kuala Lumpur.

India 172 for 3 at end of day in reply to England's massive 476

NEW DELHI, Dec. 26 (R) - Indian vice-captain Gundappa Viswanath chose the right occasion to end a disappointing run of scores on the third day of the third cricket test against England today.

Viswanath came to the wicket with India struggling at 41 for two in reply to England's huge first innings score of 476 for nine declared. The follow-on target of 277 still looked a long way of but by the close Viswanath had guided his side to 172 for three, his share being 67 not out. Tomorrow the Indians need only 105 more to make England bat again and if they achieve that target the touring team's chances of forcing a win to square the six-match series will almost certainly have

England, resuming this morning at 428 for four, lost five wickets in little over an hour as they chased quick runs.

Taiwan wins 5 golds in gymnastics meet

TAIPEL Dec. 26 (A.P.) - Taiwan captured five golds, seven sil-

Make friends with

OLD PARR

Best De Luxe

Hsiang-Yin, and Huang Su-Cheng each grabbed one gold in the women's floor exercises, uneven parallel hars, and long borse. Mark Caso of UCLA was the top winner in the men's individual all-round event, while Yoo Ki-Keum of Korean finished first in the women's all-round competition. Caso also captured only gold in the parallel bars.

ver and five bronze medals in the men's and women's events of the Friendship meet here tonight.

1981 international Gymnastic

The University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA-USA) took three golds in the men's competition, while South Korea and each collected two gold medals.

host country won one gold each in the men's floor exercises and long horse, while Chen Su-Mei, Chen

the University of Illinois (USA)

Chiang Chien-Chang of the

GOREN BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN @ 1961 by Chicago Tribune

eriaer ey en
North-South	vulnerable.
South deals.
NORTH	I + QJ10)5 , VKJ7
0 876
♦ A J 9
VEST	EAST
K	♦ 632
2 109643	♥852
KQJ9	◇ A 10
- 1004	4 Q7654
SOUTH	7.4
♦ A 98' ♡ A Q	4
0 5432
◆ K3
he bidding:
anth West	North East

North E Pass 3 + Pass 1 + Pass Pass Pass Opening lead: King of ◊.

Do you think like a bridge expert? The problem on this hand is not just to find the winning play, hut to tell us why you adopted the line you did

North was a whit weak for a jump raise, expecially since his hand contained no ruffing value. However, he could find no better hid, and the final contract was certainly reasonable. West led the king of diamnnds; East overtook with the ace and returned the ten. West won the jack and cashed the queen to complete the defensive book, as East discarded a low heart. West, an expert player, now won in dummy and the contract hinged on not losing a trump trick. The percentage play, by a wide margin, is ta finesse for the king, but declarer unhesitatingly led trump to the ace, dropping West's singleton king, thus making his contract. We can assure you that declarer did not get a peer a shifted to a heart, despite his partner's discard. Declarge either defender's hand. Can you tell us why declarer ignored the percentage fin esse for a line that was greatly against the odds? Declarer was simply giv.

ing West credit for being a fine defender! West knew that his partner was out of diamonds and he knew that. if East held the king of spades, he could be finessed out of it. So why did not as expert West lead his last diamond giving partner, if he did indeed hold the king, the opportunity to overruff dummy to score the setting trick?

Declarer reasoned that West had to know. that his partner did not have the king of spades. If West led his last diamond, declarer would ruff high in dummy and, when East could not overruff, the location of the king would be revealed. And the only way that West could be sure that his partner did not have the king of spades was because he held it himself!

Since the finesse was hound to fail, declarer's only hope was that West held a singleton king. So declarer hopped up with the ace of spades and virtue triumphed.

Page 6

Atil an fight

JORDAN TIMES, SUNDAY DECEMBER 27, 1981

FEATURES

Georgia: land of the Golden Fleece

Michael Coveney visits the historical playground of the Soviet Union's poets and painters.

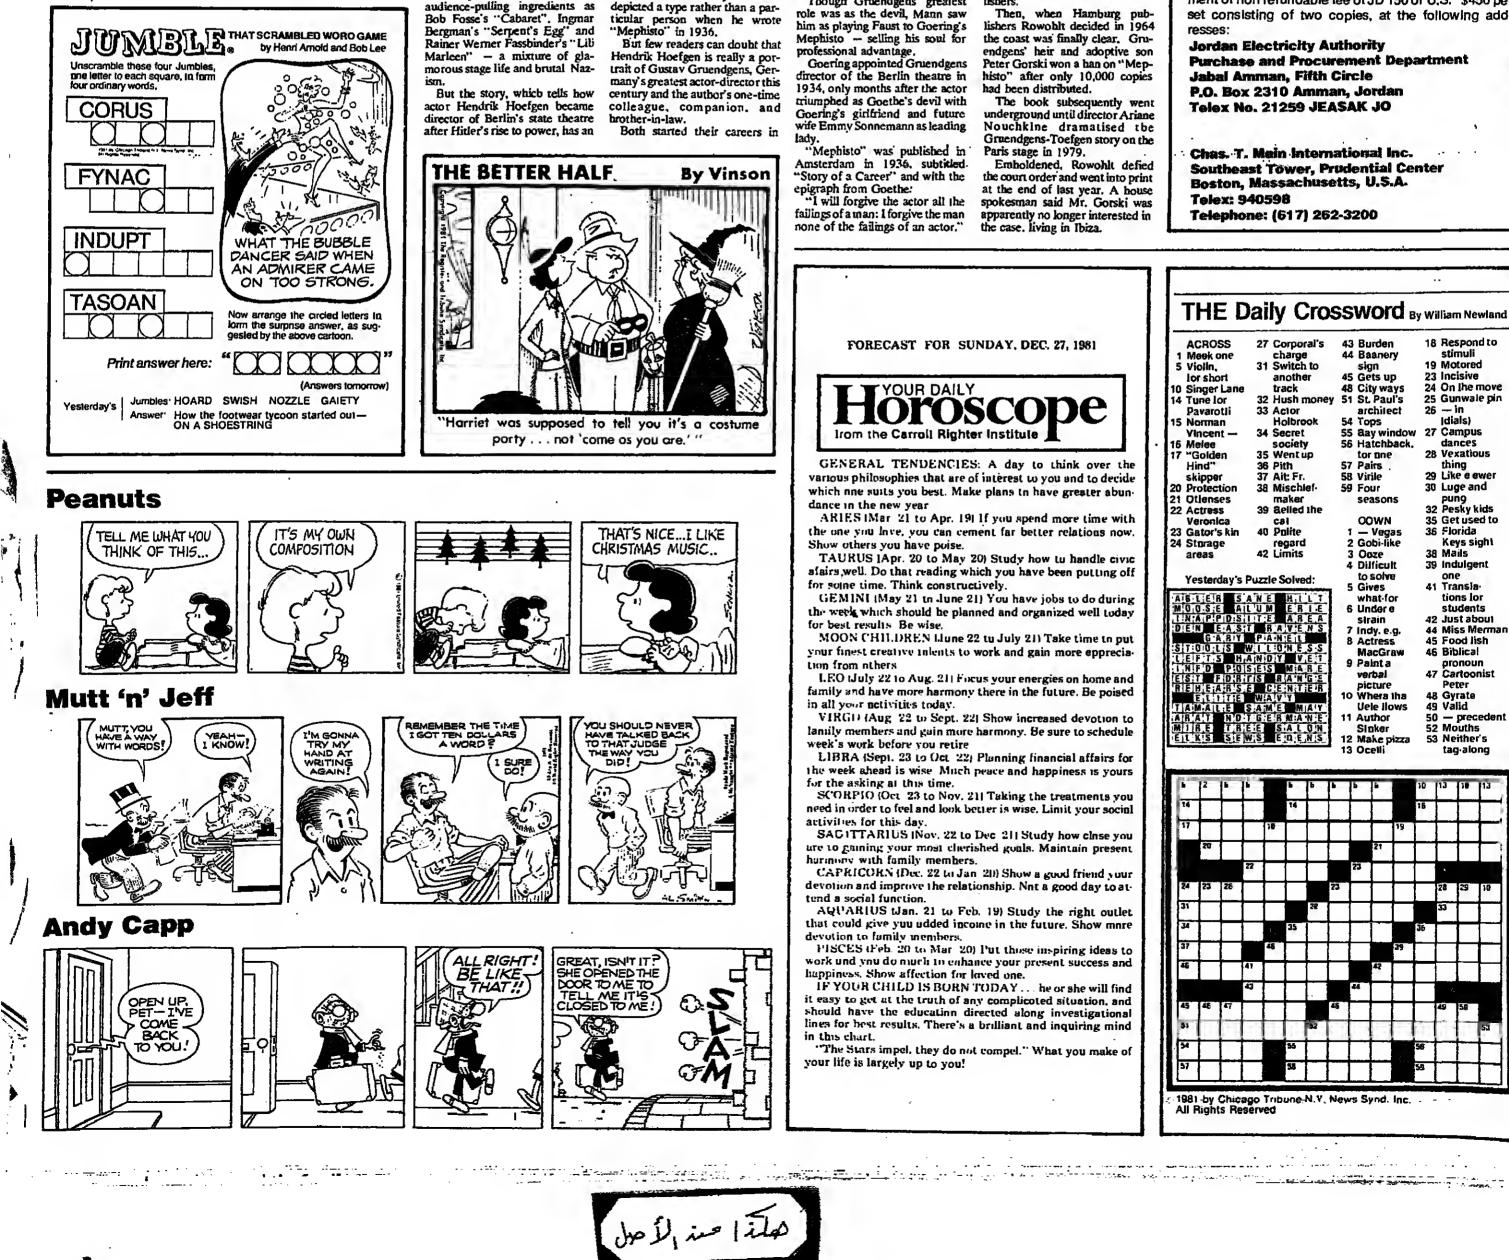

- Financial Times news feature

Georgia is the south of France of the Soviet Union, the historical pleyground of poets and painters. a country of sunshine and health resorts, of warm springs and lush vegetation. Snow-capped mountains and impressive valleys complete the romantic image.

The military highway running from Tbilisi over the main ridge of the Caucasus is the road taken by Lermontov and one of his heroes: Gorky and Tolstoy waxed eloquent on the country's ettractions. Legend gets a look in, too: Prometheus was chained to a rock in the Caucasus, while Colchis (the ancient name for Georgia) was where Jason discovered the Golden Fleece.

Georgia today produces iron, steel, machine tools, trains, cars, tractors and over 95 per cent of the Soviet Union's tea. A fifth of the 5 million population is con-centrated in Tbilisi, e wonderful city that sits like e giant amphitheatre on the spurs of mountain. ridges, the river Kura flowing through the centre.

In late October 1 sat et an improvised luncheon et the top of Mount Mtatsminda (you can go up by funicular) drinking in the view with a goodly selection of local wines. The weather was warm, bright, without any trace of bumidity (October and November are clement months, the spring ideal. July and August unhearably hot). I scanned the viste: two football stadia (the larger the home of Dynamo Tbilisi), the conical steeples and arched windows of medaeval churches, the open-work wooden balconies decorating the houses in both old and new parts of the city. Time seemed more elestic than ever in a place where relaxation is de rigueur. On whatever hasis you visit Georgia -- I went as e guest of the Rustaveli Theatre in its centenary year -- it will not be long before you are sucked into the endless round of hospitality and almost indecently indiscriminate shows of friendship. Finding a resteurant in Tbilisi is difficult and it is best to eat in one of the two main hotels (the Adjara, where I steyed, or the Iveria) but even there you really have to be careful when ordering. The Georgians confine serious eating to the home and every house I visited, from the humblest to the grandest, boasted a table replete with such delicacies as eubergines stuffed with nut pate, caviar and cream, legs of chicken and turkey in curry sauce, great flans of cheese bread, spare ribs and baked tomatoes, stuffed peppers and kebabs, saddles of lamb served with pomegranate, yoghurt and salads, fruit and cream cakes. And just when you imagine the feast to be over, out comes a plete of melon and large, yeasty portions of com on the cob.

At each meal there is enacted the pleyful ritual of who shall he toast-master, or "tamada." Once nominated, the tamada runs the proceedings and you drain your glass or empty your plate at your peril. The meal is punctuated with all manner of toasts (to loved ones, dead colleagues, intemational friendships and anything else eppropriate to the gathering) and outhursts of polyphonic folk song that send shivers down your spine and moisten vour eve. The Georgians are as fiercely proud of their traditions and culture as any people in the world. As was explained to me on countless occasions, you can live in the present by respecting your past. The main street in Tbilisi is the Rustaveli Prospekt, a handsome thoroughfare of trees, wide pavements and imposing huildings. Here you find the theatre, the opera house, the museum and the old hasilica. If you stop in a supermarket, you will first be mistaken perhaps for a Bulgarian; then the staff will ask you for cigarettes and hiros (stationery is hard to come hy).

Everyone with money seemed to be an engineer of some sort, the the home town of Stalin whose best homes invariably laden with valuable icons, grand pianos and expensive furniture. Most women work and children are cared for hy grandparents who often live with the family. The ideal Georgian woman, I was told, is she who can both pull the cart and sit in the carriage. I asked the theatre director's wife if Woman's Lib had made any impression in Georgia. The question was met with haughty disdain: "We women of Georgia, we have always been liberated." Intourist Moscow Limited will, if asked, arrange e five-day stay in Tbilisi, with two nights in Moscow, for a hargain price inclusive of hotel accommodation, air fares and transport between the two Moscow airports. In Tbilisi, for about $39 a day, you can hire e car to visit the earliest Georgian canital, Mtskheta, only 23 kilometres eway, and Gori (90 kilometres).

boreted into. an imposing mus-

Adventurous travellers with time on their hands can make a 44-hour first-class train journey from Moscow to Tbilisi, passing through Kharkov, Rostov and along the Black Sea riviera, for as little as $97. The journey by roed, epproximetely 2,000 kilometres, takes about five days. There are two routes: down to the Caucasus and around the western end of the mountain range, or else, on reaching the northern Caucasus, straight across Lermontov's military highway.

It is advisable to stay overnight in Moscow before changing airports for Tbilisi; although the flight time from Moscow is only two hours, you need several hours to cross the city. The local Aeroflot service is regular but haphazard in operation: the schedule humble dwelling has been ela- just try to crowd on to whichever plane is on the termac. Foreign visitors, soldiers and elderly Russians are given priority and extra flights are invariably arranged to cope with any hulge in demand.

> Things happen all the time in Thilisi. I was fortunate to catch, on Oct. 25, one of the city's most important festivals, the Tbilisohar. People came from far and wide to pack the old town centre for a display of processions, traditional dance, the investiture of distinguished citizens (including Balanchine's brother, e prominent Georgian composer, and the founder of the Georgian Dance Ensemble who gracefully danced her acceptance speech) and an ext-raordinary ethnographic representation of Georgian localities.

A row of dachas had been constructed overnight for citizens and their guests to wine and dine and tends to mean nothing and you dance the afternoon away.

TO LET OFFICES AND FURNISHED FLATS

Page 7

i,

 C_{2}

.

Available immediately in Suweileh, Amman Street, opposite Mobilore. Flats suitable for offices, with central heating, telephone and telex available.

Also three furnished flats in a new building.

If interested, please Call Tel, 843300 and 841734

BALFOUR BEATTY CONSTRUCTION LTD.

Requires skilled mechanics to work for the Arab Potash project at Ghor Al Safi. Food and accommodation will be provided free.

Apply to: P.O. Box 926852 or in person to Mr. E. Snowdon on site.

TENDER NOTICE Jordan Electricity Authority Agaba Thermal Power Station TENDER NO. 1/82 TURBINE GENERATOR ISLAND

Jordan Electricity Authority (JEA) announces the availability of the turbine generator island documents, Tender No. 1/82 for the Agaba Thermal Power Station, as of Dec. 23, 1981 from the consulting engineer's offices, and as of Dec. 28, 1981 from the Jordan Electricity Authority offices.

The tender consists of supply, delivery, erection, testing and commissioning of 2x130 MW steam turbines and generators, with all auxiliaries.

It is expected that only internationally competent firms with ample experience in this type of work outside their own country will participate in this tender.

Documents are available for collection against payment of non refundable fee of JD 150 or U.S. $450 per set consisting of two copies, at the following add-

Purchase and Procurement Department

Southeast Tower, Prudential Center

...

18 Respond to 24 On the move

25 Gunwale pin

stimuli 19 Motored

23 Incisive

26 — in (dials)

27 Campus dances

28 Vexatious

thing 29 Like e ewer

30 Luge and

pung 32 Pesky kids

35 Get used to

Keys sight

36 Florida

38 Mails

39 Indulgent

one

41 Translations lor students

42 Just about

45 Food lish

46 Biblical

44 Miss Merman

pronoun

50 — precedent

tag-along

47 Cartoonist

Peter

52 Mouths

53 Neither's

48 Gyrate

49 Valid

German bestseller about a Nazi Mephistopheles

By David Lewis

-- Reuters

BONN - Not for nothing is Goethe's "Faust" Germany's most powerful national epic. Mephistopheles is still capturing souls by the thousand.

Klaus Mann's "Mephisto" has added spice. It revives memories of a broken all records for its pubfiercely-contested case of court lishers, and West German cinemas have been packed since the film censorship and titillates its audversion by Hungarian Istvan ience with the thrill of the peeping Szabo opened bere at the end of tom September.

'Mepbisto'' has such Thomas Mann, always said he audience-pulling ingredients as Bob Fosse's "Cabaret". Ingmar

Hamburg. Both triumphed as Mephistopheles in Goethe's "Faust."

And hoth became director of the country's leeding theatre in Berlin - Gruendgens under Berlin state president Hermann Goering and Hoefgen under a fictional premier who displeys Goering's unmistakable corpulence and megalomania.

Even the similarity of the names gives il away. Klaus Mann left Germany in 1933, estranged from his country and from friends who felt able to Klaus Mann, son of the novelist accommodate the Nazis. Though Gruendgens' greatest

It was translated into several languages, but not surprisingly banned in Mann's home country. Kleus Mann committed suicide in 1949 soon after a publisher refused to produce an edition for West Germany.

Gustav Gruendgens had returned to the stage to enormous acclaim after ninc-months postwar internment by the Russians. and legal reprisals were feared.

The actor died in Manila in 1963 of an overdose of sleeping tablets, and although be never protested openly against Mann's novel, he did discourage publishers.

. . .

WORLD Underground miners pose

'last challenge' to Warsaw

VIENNA, Dec. 26 (R) — An underground strike by 1,100 miners today posed the last major challenge to military rule in Poland. Warsaw Radio reported.

Page 8

The sit-in by the men, who occupied the Piast mine in the Silesian coalfield when martial law was imposed two weeks ago, was "the only critical and tragic spot" left, it added.

The radio said all of Poland's hig cities were calm as the country completed bleak Christmas celebrations because of the political crisis and food shortages.

Other reports reaching the West however indicated continuing resistance with the Warsaw branch of the Solidarity free trade union calling for more passive protests by workers.

The union said in a bulletin circulated in the capital that such action would strengthen the hand of the Roman Catholic Church in negotiations with the authorities. Pope John Paul's personal envoy to Poland, Archbishop Luigi Poggi, arrived in Vienna from Warsaw on his way back to Rome. But church officials gave no details of his talks with Prime Minister Wojciech Jaruzelski who heads the military government.

Mistreatment of dissidents

Polish sources abroad added to Solidarity charges that the authorities had maltreated dissidents rounded up under martial law. Nobel Prize-winning author

Czesław Miloscz alleged in Washington that Jacek Kuron and Adam Michnik, who were in the forefront of opposition to the Pol-

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Ecevit to be set free soon

ANKARA, Dec. 26 (R) - Former prime minister Bulent Ecevit will probably he freed from prison on Jan. 20, his lawyers said today. A leftist who was prime minister three times in the 1970's Mr. Ecevis, 56, went into prison on Dec. 3 after the Ankara martial law tribunal convicted him of violating the military govconnent's ban on public statements by Turkey's former political leaders. He was sentenced to three months in jail but the tribunal also added an extra month to the penalty on the grounds that the offence was committee during a period of martial law. Now the military court of appeal has reduced the penalty back to three months. "Mr. Ecevit will most probably be freed on Jan. 20, for expected good behaviour and absence of earlier convictions," the former prime minister's lawyers said today.

ish Communist Party, had been tortured and beaten since their

Japan said meanwhile that a senior official would travel to West Europe on Monday for consultations on whether to follow the United States and impose economic sanctions on Poland. Warsaw Radio said 1,160 min-arrest.

ers were still underground at the Piast mine in southern Poland despite the entreaties of wives and relatives whose tearful pleas to the men to give up were hroadcast yesterday.

The authorities allege that many of the men are being held against their will by Solidarity militants. The radio said it was now hoped that the protest would be over by the new year.

An occupation at the neigbhouring Ziemowit mine is already over and normal work is expected to resume on Monday, according to the radio.

Explosive situation at mine

The Soviet news agency TASS reported that a lieutenantcolonel, described as the Ziemowit mine's commissar, said on Polish Television last night that the strikers had amassed a tonne of explosives underground.

Passage ways and exits had been blocked, he added. As further evidence of things getting back to normal, the radio said work would also start again on Monday at the Huta Katowice steel mill where troops smashed a strike last week. The charges of torture by Mr.

Miloscz followed allegations by

Solidarity of inhumane treatment by the anthorities of detainces.

> The union's Warsaw bulletin said that on one occasion, 300 prisoners had been kept outside for a whole night at a Wroclaw jail in freezing temperatures and doused hourly with water.

Mr. Miloscz, whose statement was signed by two other prominent Poles in the United States. said he had learned from reliable sources that Mr. Kuron and Mr. Michnik were tortured.

He said their lives were in danger and appealed to international organisations including Amnesty International to intervene on their behalf.

Bleak Christmas

Reports reaching the West said Poles packed churches for sub-Christmas services. The dued normal joyous mood was missing in most homes which were deprived by shortages of their traditional Christmas fare.

The reports said many areas of Warsaw had no water on Christmas eve. Presents were also sparse because of the lack of consumer goods in the shops.

The authorities lifted an 11 p.m. curfew to allow people to attend midnight mass which was celebrated by Archbishop Poggi at St. John's Cathedral in Warsaw. Solidarity said church leaders were now negotiating with Gen. Jaruzelski's government to try to find a political solution to the crisis.

Solidarity urges resistance town of Oum Hadjer in eastcentral Chad and peacekeeping The union said its call for controops have been sent to reinforce tinued passive resistance was intthe neighbouring town of Ati, ended to strengthen the position according to reports reaching of the church negotiators. "If we display our intention to Paris. The commander of the Zaire fight against the regime of Jarcontingent of the Organisation of uzelski, these negotiations can make possible a way out of this blind alley..." the bulletin said. African Unity (OAU) pea-cekeeping force said troops loyal

It suggested that workers at the Ursus tractor plant near Warsaw should be taken as a model. The bulletin said they produced only one tractor in the first week of martial law.

heran denominations.

remains open to all religions.

Pope calls on world's sufferers to follow example of Saint Stephen

VATICAN CITY. Dec. 26 (A.P.) - Pope John Paul II today called on all suffering people to take the example of St. Stephen, the first Christian martyr, and "lift their eyes high ... to see the heavens open"

Speaking from his apartment window to 10,000 pilgrims and tourists in St. Peter's Square on the feast of SL Stepben, the Pope said, "At this time our thoughts are with those people in all corners of the world who are suffering for love of Christ and his brothers. There are miltions who are suffering in the confines of their own countries... and we invite them to lift their eyes high and, like St. Stephen, see the heavens

The Pope praised the courage of the first century deacon, who was stoned to death for his teachings on the growing differences between Judaism and the Jewish-Christian community.

At the end of his hrief address, delivered in Italian, the Pope wished a merry Christmas to all and blessed the crowd standing in the sundrenched square.

troops have captured the strategic

Rebel forces capture strategic Chadian town

nce Presse (AFP). PARIS, Dec. 26 (A.P.) - Rebel

Mr. Habre's forces control much of the eastern border from their sanctuaries inside Sundan, but normally they have refrained from striking so close to the centre of the landlocked North African country.

On Dec. 8, 1,000 members of the OAU force from Zaire, which had been scheduled for deployment in Largeua in northern Chad, were sent to Ati, about 145 to former Chad defence minister kilometres from Oum Hadjer. Hissene Habre now control Oum Hadjer, more than 240 kilometres AFP reported. Ati is strategically important because it allows access inside Chad's border from neito the province of Batha in central ghbouring Sudan, according to the Chad. French news agency Agence Fra-

The OAU force was sent in when about 10,000 Libyan troops pulled out in November. The Libyans had intervened in

ad's civil wa

Afghans stage protest in Delhi

troop strength in Afghanistan

U.S. says Soviets increase

Meanwhile, in New Delhi, abont 100 Afghan men, women and children began a front of the Soviet embassy here to mark the second anniversary of the intervention in their country.

has solutions to problems

BUENO AIRES, Dec. 26 (R) -Argentina's new military preto barracks. sident has ordered a big dose of austerity and a smaller state role in the economy as a cure for the country's worst crisis this century.

In his first speech to the nation, President Leopoldo Fortunato Galtieri said a study on the elimination of superfluous official bodies should be ready by next March and a plan to turn state enterprises over to private enterprise would follow two months later. "I demand austere behaviour and a careful administration," the 55-year-old army general declared. He criticised what he called the exaggerated needs of "a gig-antic bureaucratic machine which does not serve the country any more and must he reduced."

Gen. Galtieri, who assumed office on Tuesday as the third army president of a so-called national reorganisation process, said an erosion of public confidence after five years of military rule was not

Shehu was forced to kill himself?

Yugoslav magazine casts doubts on Albanian prime minister's end

BELGRADE, Dec. 26 (R) - A Yugoslav magazine said today that Albanian Prime Minister Mehmed Shehu was either forced to commit suicide or was murdered after a disagreement with Communist Party chief Enver Hoxha.

The weekly magazine Nin quoted Western sources for its version of the death nine days ago of Mr. Shehu, 68, prime minister of the Stalinist state for the past 27 years. Albania had officially said the death was suicide at a time of neryous breakdown.

orted by Albania. The magazine said the conflict between Mr. Shehn and party article by a former Yugoslav ambchief Enver Hoxha, 73, occurred assador to Tirana which empat a central committee meeting of hasised that Mr. Shehu had faia Commit

24-hour sit in-hunger strike today on the broad lawn in New Argentine president

nking on Christmas Day, dec. ided against it after consulting with U.S. consular officers and an American doctor attached to the embassy, they said. Mn enough to warrant a hasty return Vashchenko is one of seven members of the Pentecostalist sect who has been living in the emhassy since they rushed past

Moscow embassy

basement hunger

MOSCOW, Dec. 26 (A.P.) __

One of seven Pentecostalian

Christians holed up in the bas.

ement of the U.S. embassy in Moscow has decided against hunger strike she had previously announced, embasy

officials said today. Augusting

Vashchenko, who had declared

she would stop eating and di-

Soviet guards seeking refuge more than three years ago. The seven have applied to emigrate to the United States.

Fire breaks out on Canadian tanker

MATANE, Quebec. Dec. 26

(R) - Three crewmen died

and nine were reported missing

when fire broke out on a Canadian oil tanker in the St. Lawrence River, a coastguard spokesman said. He said nine men had been rescued from the 4.000-ton Hudson Transport.

The cause of the fire was not

NEW DELHL Dec. 26 (A.P.)

Purdah-clad 'dips'

arrested in Delhi

known.

strike called off

"It would be illusory to deny a certain apathy, a lack of cre-dibility, but this reality is not enough to question the value of the process begun on March 24, 1976," he said. Gen. Galtieri described as a triumph the military's tough campaign against leftist guerrillas, dur-ing which thousands of people disappeared. But he said he knew that this sole achievement was not enough to win the nation's support. "We have not fought and died to go back to our barracks without having achieved the goals set in the hasic programme of the national reorganisation process," he added.

The president did not announce any specific plans for the res-toration of democratic rule despite an increasingly vocal campaign by the country's major civilian parties.

dered," the magazine said.

-Two women clad in the Marlim purdah dress were reported arrested by police for picking pockets in the crowded New Delhi railway station. The "Shehn lost the duel at the seswomen were caught when they sion, after which he was either forallegedly removed 575 rupees ced to commit suicide or was mur-($65) from the pocket of a railroad passenger, police officials said. The officials also dis-Albanian diplomats denied the report, saying that no such central committee meeting had taken place. They said there had been no closed that the two women were suspected of robbing passengers on crowded trains and dispute between the two leaders. at railway stations in northern India.

Police intervention averts gypsy massacre

VALENCIA, Spain, Dec. 26 (R) --- Police prevented a Christmas Day massacre by breaking up a bloodfeud gunbattle between two Spanish gypsy-families, but a 65-year-old sacre," a police spokesman wing resistance." the official, who asked not to be identified.

that this pressure will lead to an increased use of chemical warfare by the Soviets." he said.

The official cited evidence that Soviet authorities in Afghanistan were currently under pressure to produce results. Soviet forces recently intensified their offensive ope-

WASHINGTON. Dec. 26

(Agencies) — The Soviet Union has sent 5,000 more troops to Afghanistan and may increase its use of chemical weapons to break a military stalemate with Afghan rehels.

a senior State Department off-

The troops, boosting the Soviet force to 90,000, were seen as a sign of Moscow's concern about the progress of the war since Soviet forces entered

Afghanistan two years ago

"It suggests that the Soviets think their forces are spread too thin to counteract the groicial said today.

tomorrow.

told reporters.

rations and several days ago Moscow sent a high-level military delegation to Kahul for a protracted stay, he said. "There is growing concern

Suharto offers amnesty to ex-aides

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Dec. 26 (A.P.) - President Subarto has commuted the death sentences to life imprisonment for former foreign minister Dr. Subandrio and former chief of staff of the air force Air Marshal Omar Dhani, the department of justice said today. Chief of the department's public relations office Rahardjo said the presidential pardon was issued on Dec. 14. Dr. Subandrio and Marshal Omar were sentenced to death in 1966 by a military tribunal which found them guilty of conspiring to overthrow the legal government through an abortive communist coup attempt in September 1965. Mr. Rahardjo said their sentences are subject to remission of 20 year prison terms if they show good behaviour during the next five years of imprisonment. Both Dr. Subandrio and Marshal Omar are approaching their sixties.

Kabul frees French photographer

PARIS, Dec. 26 (R) - Jean-Paul Silve, a French amateur photographer sentenced to five years imprisonment in Afghanistan for supporting rebel troops, has been released after serving nine months, according to the external relations ministry. Mr. Silve, 21, was released Thursday and reported immediately to the French embassy, a ministry spokeswoman said. She said Mr. Silve entered Afghanistan illegally and was captured after a skirmish between rebel troops with whom he was travelling and a regular Afghan army unit on March 17. He was convicted of serving as a mercenary. Mr. Silve was allowed one conversation with his family after his trial in which he said the prosecution cited the fact he served in a paratroop unit during compulsory military training. His family quoted him as saying he was travelling with the rebels only as an observer and wanted to sell his photographs to news agencies after he came out. The spokeswoman said Mr. Silve appeared to be in good health and was due to return to France in the next few days.

Mafia shootout disturbs Sicilian town

BAGHERIA, Sicily, Dec. 26 (R)-The Christmas tranquillity of this small Sicilian town was shattered yesterday when three men, including a bystander, were killed in a Mafia shoot-out after a high speed car chase, police said. The killers, in two cars, chased the car of suspected local Mafia hoss Giovanni di Peri, 62, and Biagio Pitarresi, 35, through the town before blocking it and opening fire with pistols and sawn-off shotguns, killing both men. Police said the shooting bore all the hallmarks of a Mafia "settling of accounts." A 60-year-old pensioner, who came to the door of his house after hearing the screech of tyres, was killed by stray shotgun bullets. Police later found hoth the suspected killers' cars, which had been recently stolen.

Fears of greatest 'jaws' in California

MONTEREY, California, Dec. 26 (R) - The body of a surfer was washed ashore near here yesterday bearing the toothmarks of what could be the biggest great white shark ever to approach the Californian coast, police said. Lewis Boren, 25, was last seen surf-riding in the Pacific last Saturday. His surfboard, washed ashore the following day, also had toothmarks and an 46centimetre chunk had heen bitten off. Police quoted marine biologist Bob Lee as saying that judging from its bite pattern the shark must be 5.4 to six metres long. The biggest great white shark reported previously off the California was 4.6 metre long. The last death attributed to one of them in California was in 1955.

to return occupied churches

Ethiopian government refuses

ject to government regulation. NAIROBf, Dec. 26 (A.P.) — The Ethiopian government has ref-The diplomats said Ethiopia's pro-Soviet government claimed that church headquarters are not used to return the headquarters of the Lutheran church in Addis strictly religious buildings, but are Ababa which it seized at gunpoint last month, Western diplomats used for administration and in the based in Ethiopia said today. case of Mekane Yesus also inc-The eight-storey headquarters luded some apartments.

of the Evangelical church Mekane Sweden, Norway and West Yesus, the largest Protestant Germany had formally protested church in Ethiopia, has been turthe Nov. 16 takeover of the Mekned into government offices. ane Yesus headquarters by five Mekane Yesus groups various Scandinavian and German Lutarmed soldiers and appealed to Ethipia to give it back.

Sweden and Norway, both The diplomats, reached by telmajor aid donors to Ethiopia, ephone from Nairobi, said Ethwarned that the takeover could iopian foreign ministry officials cost poverty-stricken Ethiopia insisted in separate meetings this badly needed development aid. month with Western European

Last month, the government also seized the five-storey headdiplomats and representatives of various churches that Ethiopia quarters of the Emmanuel Baptist church, one of three Baptist But the diplomats said the government made a distinction betgroups in the country with less ween purely religious activities than 1,000 members. Its heaheld in churches -- and church actdquarters in downtown Addis ivities in agriculture, education Ababa has also been turned into and health which it said are subgovernment offices.

ш рес 1980, tipping the balance in favthe eve of the prime minister's our of Chad President Goukouni death.

It said Mr. Shehn championed Oueddei. Under pressure from Mr. Goukouni and the intthe idea of opening up Albania to the outside world from its selfemational community, Libya witisolation but Mr. Hoxha opposed hdrew after Chad refused its offer to merge the two countries. the idea.

Peking marks Mao's 88th birthday

PEKING, Dec. 26 (R) - China on Mao last summer. marked the 88th anniversary of Mao Tse-tung's hirth today with an article praising the late Chinese leader for his tolerance and broad intellect.

Vice-Premier Bo Yibo, one of thousands of senior officials whom Mao purged during the cultural revolution, wrote that Mao was a dedicated revolutionary devoted to learning and said he had an encvclopaedic knowledge of classical Chinese literature. The generally positive attitude in the article, published in the Communist Party newspaper, People's Daily, was in strong contrast to vitriolic attacks published

Mr. Bo said Mao "sought truth through facts," a slogan frequently used by his successors who wish to cast off the burden of Maoist dogmatism in favour of more pragmatic policies.

He praised Mao for believing that "there is no need to fear differing opiniioions or debate "but did not refer to the discredited cultural revolution which Mao launched in 1966 and in which millions of people died or were persecuted for disagreeing with the party line.

He did however criticise Man for launching the disastrous" great leap forward' and forcing pea-turn of his leader's policies.

in 1958.

Western diplomatic sources said that while there was plenty of speculation about Mr. Shehu's suicide, there was no hard evidence available to them to suggest

it was other than as officially rep-

The magazine also published an woman was killed and seven; Albania and Yugoslavia are people injured, a police sponeighbours but have followed difkesman said today. Forty peoferent communist policies and are ple were arrested, 20 guns and 16 cars confiscated. The arrival at loggerheads over nationalist. disturbances in the southern proof police sooner after the shovince of Kosovo. oting began "avoided a mar-

sants to form people's communes IMF, World Bank meetings postponed

said.

The great leap forward was an conomic experiment aimed at boosting industrial output and people were encouraged to produce pig-iron in their back yards. It was enormously wasteful and was at least partly responsible for a serious famine which affected the entire country a couple of years later. In a document to mark the 60th anniversary of the Communist Party last summer, Mao was attacked for committing calamitous errors in the last 20 years of his life, in particular the cultural revolution.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26 (R) - Next year's annual meeting of the World Bank and Istemational Monetary Fund in Toronto has been advanced to avoid conflict with a major Muslim holiday, a fund spokesman said today. The metting will be beld from Sept. 6-9 rather than from Sept. 28 to Oct. 1, when the feast of Idd Al 'Adha occurs, the spokesman said. The feast marks the endof the annual pilgrimage to Mecca.

Two years of war have toughened Afghan rebels

By Barry Shlachter

PESHAWAR, Pakistan - Two years of warring against the Soviet military machine has not dampened the flames of resistance in Afghanistan, where Muslim tribesmen as rugged as the terrain are taking on the foreign army in ever greater numbers.

But the insurgents' own disunity continues to work against them as they struggle against the 80,000-man Soviet force and the pro-Moscow Afghan regime it supports.

The Soviet intervention in the Central Asian country, which began Dec. 27, 1979, may no longer bold world attention as it once did. But watched or not, the fighting rages on in almost every one of the 19 provinces in that mountainous land.

Estimates of the dead and wounded in the war range up to 25,000 for the Afghan Army and 10,000 for the Soviets. Little is known about total insurgent casualties. The conflict also has driven perhaps 2 million or more Afghan refugees into Pakistan.

In the past 12 months the Afghan insurgents have become better equipped and more daring in their attacks on urban areas and have reversed a previous no-prisoner policy by taking their first Soviets alive, including a senior civilian technical adviser.

The guerrillas' holder tactics include nighttime raids by assassination teams that strike regularly against loyalists in Kabul and other cities. State-run radio Afghanistan acknowledged a particularly bloody attack on a capital's bousing complex where many regime officials and Soviet advisers reside.

Kandahar, Afghanistan's second-largest city, was twice all but overrun in 1981 by insurgents, who still stubbornly bold on to the provincial capital's southern suburbs.

In the countryside, the resistance appears to have consolidated control over a number of district headquarters, according to defecting civil servants.

Insurgents armed with plastic explosive mines and anti-tank rocket-propelled grenades -- apparently supplied by Egypt in what some sources say is a U.S.-financed programme -- have successfully defended the strategic Panjshir Valley against Soviet and Afghan army advances into the "liberated" area, 104 kilometres north of Kahul.

But every day in Peshawar, a dusty town on the Afghan horder and a base for Afghan opposition groups, new tales emerge of bloody clashes among guerrilla groups inside Afghanistan. Coalitions of insurgent parties collapse as quickly as they are announced. Abdul Rauf, an opposition military adviser who is not a member of any insurgent party. says the nagging disunity not only robs the resistance of chances to exploit successes in the field, but also leads to excesses against villagers on whose goodwill the guerrillas must depend.

The 37-year-old Rauf, who was an Afghan army colonel before he defected in mid-1979, said that when one faction, the Gulbiddin group within the Hezbi Islami (Islamic Party), finds villagers aligned to other resistance parties, it fines them heavily and seizes their weapons.

Rauf, who advises various guerrilla groups, was interviewed on his return from a four-month tour of insurgent fronts in eastern and Central Afghanistan.

A spokesman for the right-wing, Muslim fundamentalist Gulbiddin denied this and other charges, including the frequent claim that Hezbi Islami "imprisons" opponents in northwest Pakistan's semi-autonomous tribal helt bordering Afghanistan.

In another interview, Mohammed Yusef Farand, a former Afghan deputy planning minister who defected from Kabul two months ago, echoed Rauf's complaints.

"I wonder how long the people can bear this suffering," said Farand, 51, who was educated at the University of Pittsburgh in the United States.

"People are sick, wounded. But a man can be taxed two or three times by different parties, each collecting its own taxes," be said, corroborating similar accounts of life in guerrilla-run areas.

 Farand and other Afghan intellectuals supporting the resistance have expressed fears that villagers alienated by the insurgents' abuses might soon welcome any authority that can ensure security, including the current government of President Babrak Karmal.

The Kabul regime has tried to exploit the insurgents' disunity by offering bribes and arms to tribal groups, particularly those located near strategic infiltration routes through the Afghan-Pakistan border.

Reports received here say some elements of the powerful Mobmand tribe have accepted the incentives to curb guerrilla traffic in 8 key mountain pass near Kama in Nangarhar province.

But Mr. Karmal, who will be on a state visit to Bulgaria for the second anniversary of his installation into power, must grapple with fending within his own regime as well.

The So viets brought Karmal's Parcham (Flag) faction of the ruling Afghan Marxist Party back from disfavour. But they have failed to reconcile the Khalq (Masses) faction of the ruling Marxist Party to its current inferior position. The situation must worry Moscow because Khalq is remain numerically stronger in the army officer corps, where morale is said to he extremely low.

Moreover, the Parcham reportedly split this year along linguistic lines, with its Pushtun-speaking minority siding with the Pushtundominated Khalq. Karmal is a native speaker of Dari, as are 80 per. cent of his followers.

Analysts in Pakistan and elsewhere speculate that the Soviets may have launched a talent search for a Karmal successor acceptable to all party members - Khalqi and Parchami alike. One possible candidate, according to recent defectors, is Zahir Ofaq, described 25.8

committed Marzist ideologue with a dynamic personality. When the Afghan party split in July 1967, Ofaq went his own with with a small group of supporters, who claimed to be the parts Marxists. Some believe that the Soviets have protected the P¹⁹. Moscow literary scholar from arrest during the numerous purges by the Khalq and Parcham regimes since 1978.

- The Associated Pres

